Florence Chadwick's Day

Hi!
If the water between Victoria and Port Angeles is as warm as the reception I received yesterday when I arrived here, I should be able to swim the Straits of Juan de Fuca both ways.

It just made me feel wonderful to see all our old friends at Patricia Bay airport to welcome Mother and me when we arrived from Seattle. Even people whom I had never met before treated me just like one of a big family. I guess that's the way people are in Victoria.

It was so nice the way everyone kept apologizing for the rain. But actually they shouldn't have bothered. A person who is as used to being wet as I am certainly doesn't mind a little bit of rain.

You people in Victoria are marvelous. I received two wonderful gifts when I got off the plane. The first was a warm blanket coat from Hudson's Bay Company. I'll never know how they managed to find one that fit me perfectly. The other was the loan of a sleek new Oldsmobile convertible that is mine as long as I am in Victoria. It's a beautiful car, but the nicest thing about it is that it's green, my favorite color.

After I met all the press and radio and TV men at the airport, I had to go through the immigration office and it reminded me of something that happened in Seattle.

I was in the airport there, confirming tickets for Mother and me. One of the clerks knew why I was coming to Victoria, and he said, "Maybe you'd like to swim to Victoria, Miss Chadwick."

I said, "No, thank you. I am planning to swim back."

I wish you could all see my cute little cottage out in Cadboro Bay, where I will be training. It's the first thing I have seen in ages that looks like a home and Mother and I fell in love with it right away. When I unpacked my suitcases, it was the first time since January that I had been able to unpack every one of them. That's how busy I was on my tour.

Another thing, it will be a relief for Mother and I to be able to cook our own meals. We have been traveling so much lately that we have almost had to eat on the run.

I certainly hope I haven't forgotten how to cook. That would be an awful predicament for a girl who has just become engaged.

"Flo."

Peace Noisier Than War In Guatemala

GUATEMALA CITY (AP)—Peace came to Guatemala City today after two weeks of war—and it proved far noisier than any fighting the capital had experienced.

News of the cease-fire agreement reached by Col. Eliego Monzon and rebel chief Col. Carlos Castillo Armas in neighboring El Salvador arrived here early this morning and Guatemalans promptly began celebrating with firecrackers and rockets.

Members of the new ruling junta will make a triumphant entrance into Guatemala City at 11 a.m. Saturday.

6,000 VOLUNTEERS JOIN HUNT FOR PRAIRIE TOT

EDMONTON (CP)—Under overcast skies, 700 high school students volunteered their second day of summer vacation today to continue the search for two-year-old Diane Mason who wandered away from her outskirts home after a Wednesday afternoon nap.

Six thousand volunteers, co-ordinated by helicopters and military and police radio vehicles, are combing suburban and city districts.

Flo Has Real Chance Her First Tests Show

Swim Star Begins Tough Training Grind for Strait

By DENNY BOYD

If anyone needed convincing that Florence Chadwick has a good chance to make the 18½-mile swim to Port Angeles the doubts were set at rest by the famous swimmer's first performance in Victoria waters.

This morning Miss Chadwick covered nearly three miles in course of an hour and a half swimming the waters of Cadboro Bay. This followed a one-hour grind Thursday afternoon.

From each swim she came out fresh, but there is no room for argument that the temperature of the Strait waters will be the biggest factor she must overcome.

"Yes, it's cold," Miss Chadwick said when she emerged from the first dip, "but I'm looking forward to the swim and I'll be trying very hard. I promise that."

Miss Chadwick arrived here Thursday from California, by plane, to begin a rigorous six weeks' training schedule before the big day in August when she will swim for a $10,000 award.

(See Pages 15 and 19 for other stories and pictures on Florence.)

posted by British America Paint Company.

In her swim this morning Miss Chadwick got as far out as Cattle Point, where assistant coach Jack Todd figures she encountered water as cold as she will find anywhere in the strait. It was 49 degrees, compared to 51 degrees at the Cadboro Bay shore.

Hits Water Within Four Hours

Reflecting the determination she has to conquer the cold Strait, Miss Chadwick was cleaving the waters of Cadboro Bay within four hours of her arrival in Victoria.

About 1,000 people lined the beach to see Miss Chadwick take her first practice swim, some partisan, some skeptical and others just curious.

They saw the plucky San Diego girl slice through the water with her tremendously powerful stroke, covering more than two miles in the hour-long practice session—under the scrutinizing eyes of her coaches, Archie McKinnon and Jack Todd of Victoria.

When she emerged from the water at the end of the swim, smiling and waving cheerfully, even the skeptics were cheering this girl who has conquered the English Channel, the Bosphorus, the Catalina Channel and the Dardanelles.

A discriminating perfectionist in her chosen line, Miss Chadwick's first evaluation of her initial practice swim was one of self-reproach. "I was clumsy out there," she said as soon as she left the water. "I'll have to get loosened up."

Strait Reminiscent of Channel

Concerning the temperature of the water, Miss Chadwick said she was pleasantly surprised as the water was about three degrees warmer than she had anticipated. She estimated the water temperature at about 53 degrees and said that the condition of the water and the temperature reminded her strongly of the English Channel.

Miss Chadwick refused to draw any parallel between the ease and success of Thursday's swim and the awesome task she faces in August, saying, "Today's swim didn't mean much. I am anxious to find how I will react when I start training five and six hours a day in the water."

Jokingly, she said that her only concern while she was swimming was for coach Jack Todd, who rowed the coaching boat while McKinnon studied her stroke. "Poor Jack," she

While she waited for the coaching boat to come into view, Miss Chadwick signed autographs and posed for pictures although it was obvious she was anxious to start the swim. Her

Iron Constitution? Flo Proves She Has It

It will take an iron constitution to swim Juan de Fuca Strait and Miss Chadwick certainly proved Thursday she has it.

Many people who saw her swim did not know this: she flew from Los Angeles to Seattle Wednesday night and got to bed at 2 a.m. She was up at 6 and took a plunge in the Washington Athletic Club pool. This was for the benefit of famed swimming coach Ray Daughters, who once coached Flo. He gave her some advice on her stroke.

Then she was off by plane to Victoria, a bustling reception, a motorcade through town and a formal luncheon. An hour and a half later she was knifing through the waters of Cadboro Bay for a two-mile swim.

The exact date of her swim across the strait will depend on many factors and probably will not be decided for some weeks yet, after her navigator arrives from Los Angeles.

Best guess at the moment is the middle of the week August 9-14. Preliminary study of tides indicates a suitable period that week can be found. But wind and general weather conditions will have bearing on the actual start.

Flo has two public appearances Saturday. First is at 2 p.m. at the Hudson's Bay Co. fur department, where a fur show is in progress. There she'll be presented with the "fur-lined" bathing suit made up for her because of her wisecrack she might need one for the cool Strait waters.

Her second appearance will be at the Gyro Club's Hole-in-one Contest at Central Junior High at 7 p.m.

CROSSWORD PRIZE JUMPS AGAIN, NOW $150

For the third week no one came up with a correct solution to The Times weekly crossword. There were several sticklers but the real toughie was "prize," rather than "pride" for the definition "Can induce a man to think a lot of himself." With no winner, prize for the new puzzle goes up to $150 for a bonus winner. The puzzle, along with the solution to Puzzle No. 66, is on Page 25.

U.S. Upset Over French Retreat in Indo-China

Secret Deal With Communists Feared;
2 Million Viet Namese Abandoned

WASHINGTON (UP)—The sudden French withdrawal from part of Indo-China's prized Red River Delta today put a heavy new strain on American-French relations.

High American military and diplomatic officials were dismayed and upset over the abandonment of territory and 2,000,000 Viet Namese to the Reds without a fight—or a voice in their fate.

They fear France may have made a secret deal with the Reds that will only come to light as it unfolds piece-by-piece. The state department quickly disavowed any advance knowledge of the French withdrawal. It clearly wanted no connection with it.

Thailand's foreign minister, Prince Wan Wathayakon, said evacuation of the Delta increases the Red threat to his country. He said he will ask the United Nations General Assembly soon to consider sending a "peace observer" group to Thailand.

Some military strategists doubted the French could have held the area if the Communists had attacked. But there were no signs the Reds were mounting an offensive in the area.

HANOI, Indo-China (AP)—The French announced today that their troops have "successfully completed" evacuation of five fortified cities and 2,000 square miles of populous rice land in the south of the Red River delta.

Most of thousands of soldiers involved in the massive withdrawal already have taken up defense positions farther north around Hanoi, an army spokesman said.

The evacuated area, strongly Roman Catholic, was a main centre of local resistance to the Communists. A French spokesman acknowledged that it was a "very difficult decision" to leave these "people who had been on our side" to the mercy of the Viet Minh. He asserted, however, that the southern zone was hard to defend because its swampy terrain slowed French mobile units and it was "infested from end to end with infiltrators and guerrillas."

Her training plan at present is a couple of hours swimming in the morning, starting at 10, and an hour or so after lunch in the afternoon. Later her time in the water will be increased.

3 Ministers Resign in Cabinet's Biggest Shake-Up Since War's End

OTTAWA (CP)—The 21-member federal cabinet has been subjected to the biggest upheaval in post-war years.

Three members have resigned, the portfolios of three others have been shifted, and two recruits are making their initial appearance in Prime Minister St. Laurent's inner sanctum.

Gone from the cabinet are Defense Minister Claxton, Finance Minister Abbott and Transport Minister Chevrier. Shifted are: Immigration Minister Harris, to finance; State Secretary Pickersgill, to citizenship and immigration; and associate defense minister Campney, to the main defense portfolio. The associate-minister position is left vacant for the time being.

Coming into the cabinet are George C. Marler, former Liberal leader in Quebec, who becomes transport minister, and Roch Pinard, external affairs parliamentary assistant, who becomes state secretary.

The changes were announced in Mr. St. Laurent's east block office Thursday after a Dominion Day cabinet meeting.

HEADS INSURANCE FIRM

Jules Leger, Canada's 41-year-old ambassador to Mexico, is the new external affairs deputy minister. He succeeds R. A. MacKay.

The 55-year-old Mr. Claxton, a First World War sergeant-major who held the defense portfolio since 1946, has resigned to become vice-president of Metropolitan Life Insurance Company of New York and general manager of its Canadian operations August 1.

The new defense chief, handling a $2,000,000,000-a-year budget, is 56-year-old Ralph Campney, a west coast First World War veteran who made his entry into the cabinet less than two years ago.

Douglas Abbott, 55, another First World War soldier who went to the cabinet in 1945, leaves to fill a justice vacancy on the nine-member Supreme Court of Canada. His salary will be $20,000 a year, compared to $27,000 as a cabinet minister.

Lionel Chevrier, 51, another nine-year cabinet officer, leaves on appointment as the $25,000-a-year president of the St. Lawrence seaway authority.

With him as authority members will be Charles Gavsie, 45, deputy minister of revenue taxation; and Charles W. West, 64, senior deputy transport minister.

ONE BIG JELLYFISH, SIX SMALL

Defense Research Board Probes 'Flying Objects'

From BUP and CP Dispatches

OTTAWA—The Defense Research Board today began investigations into strange devices which followed a British airliner for 80 miles off the coast of Labrador Tuesday.

A spokesman for the board described it as a "phenomenon," and said that the board would try to find out all it could about it.

Capt. James Howard, veteran pilot of the British Overseas Airways Stratoscruiser, reported to the U.S. air force base at Goose Bay, Labrador, while he was 170 miles out, that he had picked up an "extraordinary" escort composed of one large jellyfish-like flying object, surrounded by six smaller ones.

They disappeared, the smaller craft apparently boarding the large object, when a U.S. interceptor plane approached. But they had followed the BOAC plane for 80 miles at 19,000 feet, flying about five miles off the plane's wing-tip, at 274 miles per hour. The occurrence was seen by Howard's 10 crew members and a dozen of the 51 passengers aboard.

In London science expert Chapman Pincher of the Daily Express said what Boyd saw was probably just a reflection of the aircraft from a wavy layer of air.

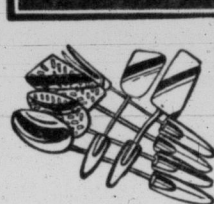

Whatever the explanation, Boyd isn't worried. If they are objects from another world—as he is convinced they are—he figures they won't do any harm to people on this planet. "They probably think we're morons anyhow."

62 DEAD IN TEXAS

MR. JUSTICE DAVEY

H. W. Davey Named to B.C. Appeal Court

OTTAWA (BUP)—Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent Thursday named four new judges for Alberta and British Columbia. Herbert William Davey was appointed a justice of the British Columbia Appeal Court, effective Sept. 1.

Harold W. McInnes of Penticton, B.C., was appointed a judge of the B.C. Supreme Court to fill the vacancy created by Davey's move.

M. M. Porter of Calgary was named a judge of the appellate division of the Supreme Court of Alberta and ex officio judge of the trial division of the same court. He filled a vacancy caused by the death last Feb. 28 of H. H. Parlee.

Neil Primrose of Edmonton was appointed a judge of the trial division of Alberta's Supreme Court and ex officio a judge of the court's appellate division.

The appointments of Davey and Primrose followed passage of a bill recently by parliament which authorized the extra judges.

Gay Merritt Parade Turns Into Tragedy; Man Dies

MERRITT, B.C. (BUP)—L. Tessier, 40, was burned to death when a gay Dominion Day parade here turned to tragedy when one of the floats caught fire.

The float on which Tessier and two other men, Bill Pooley and Wilfred Quenville were riding, depicted life in the South Seas, and the trio was clad in grass skirts. A small smudge fire was burning on the float, and a sudden gust of wind blew the flames onto Tessier's skirt.

Pooley and Quenville tried to save Tessier by throwing themselves on his burning skirt, but their skirts caught fire and they were hospitalized with severe burns. An RCMP constable was credited with saving Pooley's life by throwing his coat around him and rolling him on the ground.

Rio Grande Drowns Hundreds in Mexico

EAGLE PASS, Tex. (AP)—The Rio Grande was back between its banks today, its receding waters carrying the secret of how many died and leaving mounds of foul, disease-breeding mud.

Hidden in the muck and in the draining waters was the answer to whether the best available figures—62 dead, 90 to 400 missing—fall short of the truth.

Clothing, food, medicine, money were on the way and the need was great.

The need was greatest across the river in Piedras Negras. One Mexican army major said the dead there may number more than 400. He said it probably never will be known how many bodies floated downstream, how many were recovered and buried by the bereaved.

The Rebel Conservatives

THE REBELLION INSIDE THE Conservative Party of British Columbia appears small in size and, like many others of the same sort, may soon peter out. But whether the rebels know it or not they have touched a cardinal fact of national politics—the fact that the forces of opposition to the Liberal Government are hopelessly divided and can never expect to govern until they unite.

The local rebels, of course, are desperate men, who were defeated in the last provincial election, whose Party has been virtually wiped out of the Legislature and is no longer a significant force in provincial affairs. They realize that Conservatism is struggling for survival in this province. As it is not a time for pretences, they make no secret of their dissatisfaction with the Party's national leadership.

Some Conservative candidates who were elected to Parliament last year are accused of secret dealings with Social Credit, and such alleged arrangements in local constituencies are said to explain those candidates' success in areas where provincial candidates were overwhelmingly defeated. This charge is denied by the federal candidates and no proof has been offered to support it. Presumably more will be heard of the matter when the B.C. Conservatives meet in Vernon shortly.

Some Liberals, it is to be supposed, will rejoice at the troubles of their historic opponents. This is a short-sighted and stupid view. The weakness of the Conservative Party throughout the nation is a disaster to our politics and national life. For the result is that Canada lacks any real alternative to the Liberal Party, the only national party, in a true sense, now existing. The two-party system is actually in suspense while the enemies of the Government quarrel among themselves.

The dispute in British Columbia reveals the long-term strategy of Social Credit—it may make deals with local Conservatives for temporary purposes although it intends to destroy and replace the Conservative Party. Any Conservative candidate who fails to understand that is not fit to run for public office. There is no sign yet, however, that Social Credit can destroy the Conservative Party. All it can do at the moment is to destroy any effective opposition to the Government at Ottawa.

To be sure, both the Conservative Party and Social Credit are parties of the Right and some local candidates, in search of votes at any price, may profess to see no difference between them. Politicians like Mr. Bennett may find no difficulty in supporting the Conservative Party all their lives and then slipping comfortably into Social Credit as if it were only a new name for Conservatism.

In fact, Social Credit stands for just about everything Conservatism has always opposed—for unsound money, for governmental control of the entire economy through the fixing of prices and for a confused kind of isolationism. The two parties agree on high-tariff protectionism but that agreement alone will not persuade any Conservative of serious principles to embrace Social Credit and its monetary mysticism.

The local rebels, therefore, are struggling for a principle as well as for votes. The outcome of their struggle in terms of principle—quite apart from the attack on Mr. Drew—will be awaited with interest in all parts of Canada.

'Know-Nothings on the March'

THE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE Monitor notes U.S. Senator Fulbright's worry that "the primitive know-nothings are again on the march."

Senator Fulbright has been closely identified with the exchange of thousands of students between his country and other lands. His absorption in that worthwhile undertaking leads him to misgivings over the new attitude to education in the U.S.

The Monitor expresses opinion to justify the senator's fears. The highly respected journal comments: "It is a fact that today, when university education is open to more citizens than could have been dreamed possible in 1789, the exceptionally well-educated man, the professional scholar, the 'intellectual,' has fallen in public esteem from the position of honor he held among the founders of the republic. The trained, analytical mind, stored with the riches of history and challenging the assumptions of mediocrity, was once thought to be a bulwark of liberty. Now it is often assumed to open a man to pernicious Red influences."

Drive Carefully, Or Else . . .

MOTORISTS ON THE ISLAND Highway may now consider themselves under constant surveillance. The decision of the RCMP to use "ghost" cars in an effort to curtail dangerous or reckless driving means just that.

Perhaps the driving public has invited this method by the police. Something obviously has to be done to reduce the number of accidents and fatalities on the highway and the municipal chief of Saanich, where the system is in use, says "ghost" cars provide the only way to catch the individual who drives prudently when a police car is in sight and then becomes reckless when he believes he is not under the official eye.

It is a sad state of affairs when this technique has to be applied. Injury and slaughter on the highway call for stringent action. But one could wish that people would drive carefully because they recognize and adhere to proper standards of safety, not merely through fear of being caught.

Reminder of Sportsmanship

IN BERNE ON SUNDAY HUNGARIAN and Brazilian soccer players walked off the field after what has been called one of the worst-tempered international games in football history. Fist-fights among players developed into dressing-room brawls in which bottles, broken glass and football boots were weapons.

Whatever may be the outcome of the world's championship series, the aftermath of that event will leave

A Man and His Stereotypes

PERHAPS BECAUSE THE SEASON has been late and the call of the water has been faint, the laggard turns now to the annual chore of painting his rowboat a full month after it should have been done.

Once again he finds himself caught in the rigid confines of stereotypes. Conventionally the hull should be white, with a color streak around the gunwale and a contrasting shade for the interior.

Or it can be more practical, a solid deep color—bottle green, blue, brown or even red on the outside with grey interior.

Whatever the choice, it will lack imagination. A man seems unwilling to let his fancy play when he paints his boat. If he has any inclination to originality, he stifles it. After all, he says, it is the lines that count, not the shade. But why?

A child does better. A child can run amok among the paintpots and produce a glory—a slightly daubed glory, but a glory nevertheless. His kayak emerges in candy stripes, or spotted gaily like a bread wrapper. It has a distinctiveness, a brightness, a touch of individuality.

A man contemplates the labors of a child, envies them and, greatly daring, decides to vary his color ideas. This year he will put a little yellow with his white for the hull, make it cream. But not too cream. It is a boat he's painting.

Keeping the Old Tree Healthy

Chips

BY DAVID BROCK

HOW are the police getting along with their duty to arrest slow drivers on the highways? It is some time since slowness was declared a menace to our safety, yet I've not read much about the remedy. If it is dangerous of me to go 20 miles an hour, I presume it is dangerous of a heavily loaded logging truck to crawl up a hill at 15 or 10. Yet I still see logging trucks on the roads. Another thing that bothers me is this: if it is dangerous of me to drive at 15 m.p.h. past a lovely view, why is it so safe of me to drive that slowly past a school? A stranger behind me doesn't know the school sign is going to appear at any moment. Heavens, he might bang the daylight out of me.

SUPPLY AND DEMAND

CHEFS and diners, cookery books and their readers, argue endlessly about the "correct" way or the "best" way to make an omelette. How sensible is the good Escottier, who simply says (and says it flat) that there is no law on the subject. The best omelette is the one demanded by the customer. The customer must be able to describe it, and the chef able to cook it, that is all.

NONE OF THAT HERE

EACH year a nurseryman in Oregon sends me a fascinating catalogue of bulbs, plants, shrubs and trees. It is fortunate for my purse that it is so difficult to import growing things. But there is no harm in reading and wishing. In this year's catalogue there are many wonderful things . . . about 75 different ferns, for example, and about 200 different irises. But what I liked best had nothing to do with gardens. It was just the sentence: "We do not go in for superlatives . . . we try to grow only the best." The notion that "best" isn't a superlative is a lovely example of how the language becomes inflated. It is on a par with those systems of grading food, whereby "Fancy" means middling to no good, and "Colossal" means the smallest size.

PEN PAIS

I WAS making fun of education, and telling a friend of mine that chaps who can't read or write are apt to be more original, more observant, etc., than so-called literates. Which is often true enough. My friend agreed, tentatively, and then said "They're not much use to you by mail, though, if you get separated from them."

TIP FOR PARENTS

HAVING brought up four children to mid-childhood, or at least to a total of 40-odd years, I may be learning something about child management, by trial and error. I dunno—maybe I'm making worse mistakes than ever, with the really fatal mistakes still to come. There is one thing, though: these kids remind me of my own youth, of things I had forgotten. And I suddenly see where I made mistakes in my own youth. Some of my deeds were unknown to the grown-ups, some were permitted by them, and some were actively encouraged. A few, a very few, of my mistakes were actually ordered by the grown-ups.

IF I have learnt nothing else, I have learnt this: never let a child give his best books away, not even to a younger brother, on the argument that he has outgrown them. Some of them he will want to see again when he is 40 or so, and others he will want to try out on his own children. Golly, the things that I passed on to my brother Tom, who passed them on to my brother Pip, who passed them on to the family. For example, there was a huge pile of old bound volumes of the Boys' Own Paper . . . the B.O.P. Some of these had belonged (strictly) to our older brother Bill at one time, and two or three had belonged to my father long ago . . . one of those really old ones had a story called "The Master of the World" which I swear was by Jules Verne, so you can see how old it was. But Bill's and my father's ones had fairly legally become mine, and the rest of the pile had come direct from the shops to me.

WHEN I stopped reading the B.O.P., the pile passed to Tom and then to Pip without any deed of gift at all . . . just a family custom. And then it disappeared, blast it. I don't think Pip ever read them. He simply sat on them. His desk was too high for typing, so he would pile three or four B.O.P. volumes on his chair, to elevate his body rather than his mind. When these volumes showed signs of collapse he would select others.

And that is what now prevents me and my sons from reading "In the Power of the Pygmies," by Captain (later Major) Chas. Gilson, and heaven knows what else. I remember one serial, possibly by Gilson, which caused a raised eyebrow or two around the old home. It concerned an Englishman captured by Bedouins, and was called "The Sheikh's White Slave." Apparently the grown-ups thought it meant something else. This baffled me a lot.

THE DEATH OF THE PARTY

I hate a straightforward fellow. If every man were straightforward in his opinion, there would be no conversation.

They Note an Inward Flaw

BY JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP, From Washington

FAR FROM SEEMING ailing or aged, Sir Winston Churchill has displayed all the splendor of the greatest personality of this age during his days in Washington. Furthermore, he and President Eisenhower have done good business together. They have re-forged the links between Britain and America, as they set out to do. Yet there is still a flaw in the forging that they have not and perhaps could not overcome. In brief, the British leaders have now waked up to Britain's total peril from Soviet attack with absolute weapons.

Joseph

It may seem strange that this British awareness of total peril should now be so important. After all, the peril has existed for some time. It has been known in theory since it began to exist but the truth is that the British leaders did not feel the peril in their bones until this winter. Their actions were not influenced by it. They did not regard their peril as something real, practical and immediate.

A date can even be given, on exceedingly good authority, for the moment of the prime minister's own full awakening. On February 17, Rep. Sterling Cole talked in Chicago to an ironically chosen audience—the annual convention of the National Sand and Gravel and Ready-Mixed Concrete Association. But Cole got his most attentive hearing, in London, at No. 10 Downing Street.

Horrible Things

The chairman of the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy described how our first hydrogen bomb "obliterated the test island" at Eniwetok; "a cavity in the floor of the ocean a full mile in diameter"; and did other horrible and specific things.

Precisely because Cole's facts were vivid and specific, they aroused the prime minister as he had never been aroused by all the secret and abstract studies available to him. Churchill has been quoting Cole's facts ever since, in a sort of grim litany. He referred to them at length during the White House talks, reiterating his other oft-repeated statement that the British Isles are "a bull's eye target" for Soviet attack.

Still more curiously, the episode of the Japanese fishing boat was what really convinced most of the other members of the British government.

Like Churchill they had all the secret papers. But as in Churchill's case, the elaborate calculations of the secret papers had seemed to them remote and unreal. Then the fall-out from our second hydrogen test cruelly interrupted the voyage of the Fortunate Dragon. And that simple episode translated the calculations of the secret papers into human terms that any politician or planner could understand.

After that, the peril of Britain was truly real and truly immediate in the mind of every British policymaker. And this harsh, belated awakening in turn controlled the British response to the challenge in Indo-China.

All the reasons the British have given for their policy in the Indo-China crisis—the importance of Asian nationalism, the need for Asian support, and so on—are good reasons. But there is one other thing about their policy that the British have not said.

GREATER DANGER

Warnings that the loss of Indo-China would amount to a super-Munich in Asia, have come from almost every trusted British key official on the spot. Britain's own Asia experts have emphatically argued that the danger of an Asian Munich is much greater than the danger of offending Asian nationalism.

All these warnings have been ignored in London, except for one detail. Reinforcements are being sent to Malaya to meet the increased Communist menace there, which only confirms the character of the warnings.

All the facts, in short, point the same way. The British policymakers thought that a war to save Indo-China would spread into a wider war. Hence they had to ask themselves, "Are we ready to risk the destruction of Britain for the sake of Indo-China?" That single question was controlling and decisive. The answer was, "No." The British therefore set out to secure the surrender in Indo-China that is now taking place.

It is tragic that the sense of total peril should produce the kind of result. But it is not blameworthy, because it is inevitable.

In twelve or eighteen or twenty-four months, some other trifling episode can be expected to arouse the people and the policymakers of this country to the peril of America. And we shall then react to our own total peril for it will be total by then—in just about the same way that the British have reacted. We sleep now, as the British sleep until this winter. And it will be a nightmare to awaken.

Such is the flaw in the Anglo-American partnership, in the Western alliance, and the whole ruling conception of American foreign policy.

LONDON: AN ANSWER TO U.S. CRITICS

Are the British Afraid of War?

BY PETER LYNE, in The Christian Science Monitor

ARE the British scared of being bombed? Is their foreign policy of negotiation and coexistence with communism governed by such a fear?

These questions are being asked in the United States. They are asked, too, by Britons themselves when prodded into an occasional mood of self-analysis.

There are some American observers, friendly to Britain, who answer, "Yes, the British are afraid of being bombed"—an answer given not in a sense of condemnation but rather of compassion. These observers ask their fellow Americans to have a sympathetic understanding for the British whose tight little island is so vulnerable to atomic and hydrogen bomb attack. But however kindly this American view may be, it implies Britain might be incapable of taking a decision about war on its real merits.

NONE TOUGHER

The Briton emphatically rejects the idea that he is scared or that his attitude to war is unduly influenced by fear. He continues to recognize himself more in words like those of American poet Walt Whitman describing an English sailor: "His was the sturdy English pluck, and there is none tougher or truer, and never was and never will be."

Yes, but could not the British just be fooling themselves by putting on the old bulldog front when in fact they would do anything to save being bombed?

After the most careful consideration of this question and discussion of it with many people in very different walks of life, I find no justification for the view that fear of being bombed has a decisive influence on British policy today.

The British were under bombing longer than any other civilian population in Second World War, though others like the Germans and Japanese had it heavier. Of course they don't like it. They hate it. Would they submit to being bombed and bombed?

JUST PLAIN CRAZY

One can probably find no people who are less keen on trying the experiment than the British. They are convinced that atomic and hydrogen bomb warfare as a way of settling the world's problems is just plain crazy. Moreover they are convinced that peace can be secured without another world war. This conclusion is based not on fear. It is based on realism and logic.

The British have been misjudged before. They have been misjudged by some of the most competent and honest and friendly American observers. In 1940 the odds against Britain's survival were fantastically high. It was not surprising that many thought they could not survive. But the British themselves did not doubt the outcome. Some say it was lack of imagination.

However, the fact is there is no real reason for thinking that the British today are fundamentally different from what they were in 1940 and throughout Second World War.

Among many I have talked to these few days on this subject was an average English middle-class woman who had shepherded her young family all through the London blitz—a wonderful performance when one looks back on it.

UNSELFISH REPLY

I asked her, "Are you scared of war and atom bombs? Do you think the British would submit to communism rather than be bombed?"

She said, "I don't think of it. If I do think about a next war, it's my boys I think of. They would have to fight."

I believe that in this calm, unselfish reply is perhaps the best answer to a question which is so very difficult to answer because it deals with that word, fear, which has so many meanings.

I find no fear in Britain in so far as it would mean panic decisions or unreasoned policies. I think the British would "take it" again if they had to and if they thought it was a really just cause, as they did between 1940 and 1945.

I believe the inner fiber of Britain is more truly represented by the heroism of the Gloucestershire Regiment in Korea in 1951 than by the resolutions passed by Coventry City Council to end civil defense.

IF NEEDS BE

Britons should not be misunderstood. They always have argued against war and then proved themselves fine fighters if needs be.

In support of this judgment I have the opinion of a very fine, thoughtful, and effective American, Morehead Patterson, who has been in London since May as representative for his country on the United Nations five-nation subcommittee trying to reach a disarmament agreement with the Soviet Union.

There had been some feeling in the United States that Britain and France might bring undue pressure for banning the A and H-bombs without sufficient assurances that the Soviet Union would not thereby be enormously strengthened.

Doubtless there was strong reason for this anxiety in view of the outcry against the new bombs in Europe and the horror campaign attached to it.

But Mr. Patterson found the British and French official attitudes to be realistic, not emotional and not motivated by fear.

As Our Readers See It

COMPARATIVE PAY

Do official data exist comparing the annual earnings of workers in (a) civil service, (b) Crown corporations, (c) monopolies or near monopolies, (d) in private enterprise?

From the actual evidence of many hundreds of income statements which come under my notice yearly, it seems clear the worker in entirely competitive enterprise is getting less and less as compared with "sheltered" workers.

For a long time it was recognized that, owing to much steadier employment and easier working conditions, a civil servant who got a monthly wage of 20 per cent less than the non-civil servant, was just as well off, and that 20 per cent less nominally was, in fact, a fair deal.

That the civil servant is today considered to be in a preferred position seems proved by the evidence that for most civil service jobs there are many more eager applicants than for similar private jobs.

"ENQUIRER."

To Stand and Stare

EACH year about this time a friend of mine, whose headquarters are in Montreal, drops in for a visit. He is a talented, artistic gentleman who went east and grew up on that part of the country.

His measure of success is attested by national ratings at the top of his field—and ulcers. He can talk so fast that when he dials the wrong number the party on the other end of the phone apologizes. The young man is quite able to take care of himself. But he has an Achilles heel. When it comes to natural beauty, he has a soul. A soul for beauty can be pretty embarrassing.

On his visits here he disguises his weakness very well for a time under a torrent of abuse aimed mainly at me. It's good-natured abuse, of course, with the unpleasant justification of being merited.

But eventually this runs down and his inner sensibilities reveal themselves. His soul for beauty is exposed, unprotected, quivering and wounded.

On his last trip here he climbed Mount Douglas for the view. Before him in the blue distance were the mountains, the sea sparkling between and green islands in the foreground. At his feet was the garbage some one had packed into the country and dumped.

"If I had my way," he says, "I'd have police track the guy who threw garbage there as if he were a murderer. When he was caught, I'd slap a fine on him that would make him holler. Then I'd send him back to pick up every bit of refuse he'd dumped there."

"Have you been to Goldstream recently?" he asked.

I told him I had.

VANISHING ATTRACTION

"Did it ever occur to you that you're losing one of your best attractions there? Did you ever stop to think that the road ought to be left twisting and that a 25-mile-an-hour speed limit should be enforced from the entrance right to the top of the Malahat?"

"What harm would it do? Sure, it would make the trip 10 or 15 minutes longer, maybe. But the guy who wanted to see scenery would have a chance to see it as he drove by and the guy who didn't, would have to."

"It's a surprising thing about people rushing by too fast to see beauty on the way. If you point it out to them, they enjoy it. They realize that they've been missing something, and once you've drawn their attention to what they've missed, they start looking for it somewhere else.

"But what'll you have at Goldstream? In time a speedway with the prettiest white line down the centre you ever did see. That's what motorizing's getting to be—a smooth super highway with a white line down the middle and a speed limit so high nobody in a car can appreciate what he's passing."

"Do you know that up in Banff they have one road with a big tree right in the middle of it? Nobody's run into the tree, and when the rubberneck tours go past it, the driver stops and tells the passengers the story of the tree. They like it. The people who live up there like it. It's their tree."

"Here in Victoria and on the Island you're missing a bet. You've got scenery, you've got distinction. You've got appealing eccentricity which is appealing because the eccentricities don't know they're eccentric. What are you going to do? Eliminate it all and then create some phony eccentricities?"

My visiting friend's a little pessimistic. He agrees with one of his Alberta artist friends that you've got to be hard, that there isn't much room in the world today for a soul for beauty. But he sees some possibilities.

Among his other activities, he has developed a novel hobby. He presents what he calls a story without words. It's an auditorium event in which he shows pictures of scenic wonders accompanied by a mood-music sound track. He does very little talking in his "lectures." He lets the eyes and ears of the audience work for them. And he finds they like it.

SOMETHING FORGOTTEN

My friend tells me of a small party which attended three of his lectures in a row. The men were pretty hard-headed businessmen, the kind with an eye on the dollar and the big deal. They were accompanied by wives to match. My friend didn't quite understand their attendance—why his presentation should appeal to them.

He learned at the close of one lecture. The party spokesman came up to him to express thanks, adding: "You've shown us something there. You've shown us something we'd forgotten."

The tribute was unexpected. And it cast a slightly different light on my friend's assessment of the average man's soul for beauty. He thinks maybe, deep down, everybody has that appreciation, but it is deep down. If it could be uncovered highway beauty might be something more than velvet-smooth asphalt, arrow-straight, with a white line down its centre.

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Colitis

Dr. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

Hundreds of people who say that they have been told they have colitis now want to know what they can do for it. As they say, "The doctor told me my troubles were all due to colitis but he didn't cure me. I want to be cured. Please send me a diet and some medicine." I always say that I can't suggest a thing until I know what kind of colitis the person has—granting that he has any. To me, it is unfortunate that we doctors, during the years, have drifted into the habit of calling by the same name two entirely different troubles; one, a purely nervous disturbance of a perfectly normal colon, and the other, a serious and sometimes fatal inflammation of the colon.

The so-called spastic colitis, or mucous colitis, is a harmless trouble. I won't even call it a disease because if one were to operate and look into the abdomen, one would find a perfectly normal colon. Only rarely do I even prescribe a diet for it, because in most cases the symptoms are due purely to nervous tension and apprehension. It is the sort of false diarrhea that a nervous girl gets when she has to start on a journey, or has to go out with her beau, or go to a dinner, or make a speech at the club. Then she may start wanting to go to the toilet every 15 minutes to pass a little gas, or perhaps a little brown froth or a tablespoonful of fluit. This isn't even a true diarrhea; it is pure nerves. Together with this formation of gas and mucus the colon may feel sore, or the whole abdomen may become uncomfortable.

TERM MISUSED

Expert stomach specialists have protested against the misuse of the term colitis. They say that we doctors should never tell a nervous worrisome woman that she has a spastic colon. This does no good and can only cause worry. Since every self-respecting nervous woman has a colon which, on the left side, often contracts down into what feels like a piece of hose, why talk about it? At the Mayo Clinic the X-ray men never diagnose a spastic colon; they report a "normal colon" because it is normal for a tense person. One might as well blame a nervous woman's miseries on her badly bitten finger-nails as on her spastic colon. Bitten finger-nails and a tense colon are results and not causes.

I have had a nervous colon all my life and I have never tried to cure it. It bothers me mainly when I am speaking once or twice a day for several days at a convention. I enjoy the many contacts with people but inside I get tense; and then I become uncomfortable. I inherited my sensitive colon from one of my parents. The so-called spastic colon, so far as I know, is not more likely than any other to become cancerous. Certainly, no one should ever worry about a nervous colon's ever "turning into" anything.

What is most important is that highly nervous woman should never get the idea that her so-called colitis is going to explain all of her nervousness, jitteriness, worrisomeness and abdominal discomfort. I am sure she has the cure before her. Her colon is misbehaving simply because she is so nervous or unhappy or disgruntled with her husband or tired out and ready to scream at the children. When she goes on a restful vacation, she may find that her colon is perfectly normal.

A thousand times a woman has said to me, "But if you will only quiet my colon, I won't be nervous." And I have to answer that I can't quiet her colon so long as she is so tense and nervous. Treatment has to begin with the nervousness.

HARD ON DOCTOR

One day after I had talked for an hour to a rather stupid woman, trying hard to make her see that her colon was normal and that all her discomforts were due to her fussing and fretting and stewing over little things, she asked, "But why, if I have no colitis, did one of the leading doctors in my city tell me I had?" I fear I somewhat lost my patience and said, "Because he had much more sense than I have. He got you out of his office in three minutes with a diagnosis which pleased you much, and a prescription for belladonna; and here I am; I spent an hour talking to you and you are still unconvinced; you are much annoyed at my statement that all your examinations at a great clinic have failed to show anything wrong, and you are sore at me."

Some readers may ask, "Well, didn't the doctor who got her out of the office in three minutes have more sense than 'you did'?" I do not know; all I know is that he did not help her in the least; he hardly tried. I tried so hard because I felt so sorry for the nice young husband who, I felt sure if I did not help, was doomed for the rest of his days to pay doctors' bills. This was why I tried desperately to put some sense into the woman so that she would stop trying to get her cure out of a bottle and several abdominal operations.

VICTORIA 'GOOD CITIZEN' NOMINATIONS SOUGHT

The Victoria branch of the Native Sons of British Columbia is seeking nominations for the capital's "good citizen" of 1954, which may be sent the secretary, R. H. Hiscocks, 609 Truett Street.

Anyone may send in names of people believed to have done the most to help fellow citizens during the year. A secret committee decides the winner, and it is not a question of how many persons choose an individual. Decision is based on worth of service only.

The award will be presented in late July or early August.

Cold, Rain Postpone B.C. Celebrations

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia had its coldest, wettest Dominion Day in 17 years Thursday. Most community celebrations were rained out.

A big sports bill was trimmed down but 10,000 punters went to the Lansdowne Park races.

The provincial soap box derby in Mission City was postponed until 10 a.m. today and the Canadian cycling championships at the British Empire Games oval in Vancouver were put forward until 7 o'clock tonight.

The weather office at Sea Island airport here reported the mid-afternoon temperature at 56 degrees, the lowest for the holiday since 1938. Rain has fallen six times in the last 17 years but Thursday's 25 inches sets a record.

NEED MONEY

You would probably save yourself money, and inconvenience too, if you picked up your telephone now and ordered your winter coal supply.

But, what with other expenses, you may find that there's not enough in the family treasury to stand a sudden coal order at present—even with the cheaper summer prices.

If you are short of cash for such a purchase, why not see the manager of your local B of M branch? Provided you have an assured income, and can repay a loan in ten monthly instalments or less, the Bank of Montreal will gladly lend you money for your winter fuel.

And with your 'coal money' from "My Bank", you'll pay your coal-bill with one lump sum...you'll catch the seasonally lower prices...you'll have your coal delivered dry and you'll avoid the last-minute rush on the coal dealer.

So, to be nice and snug next winter, see the B of M today!

Churchill, Eden 'Very Satisfied'; No Problems Settled—St. Laurent

NEW YORK (CP)—Sir Winston Churchill and Foreign Secretary Eden sailed for home Thursday and a British diplomat who saw them off said both were "very well satisfied" with their North American visit.

Sir Roger Makins, ambassador to Washington, who visited the prime minister and foreign secretary aboard the liner Queen Elizabeth, told reporters afterwards: "I think they feel they have done a great deal to cement our understanding over a wide range of issues."

In Ottawa, Prime Minister St. Laurent said no problems were settled by Sir Winston's North American visit.

However, he added, the psychological effect of the visit had been good. It had cleared the air and made the English-speaking countries—and other countries, too—realize that "we are going to work together."

At another point, Mr. St. Laurent told his Thursday press conference that he believes a conference would be undesirable Commonwealth prime ministers' at this time.

Canada's Future Unmeasurable Reminiscing Churchill Declares

OTTAWA (CP)—Sir Winston Churchill predicted Wednesday night that Canada one day will take its place among the first rank of sovereign communities. But he appealed to Canadians never to forget the "old land."

The British prime minister's words came in a farewell broadcast carried across Canada by the CBC. Later, with Anthony Eden, Churchill took off from Rockcliffe airport by RCAF plane for New York.

At the airport, a big crowd cheered, applauded, and sang "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow" before Churchill boarded his plane.

Here is the complete text of Sir Winston's radio speech last night:

It now is 53 years since I first came to Canada on a lecture tour after the Boer War. I was very kindly treated and I have been back several times since. In those early days population was a little over 5,000,000. When I come back to you now, it is nearly 15,000,000.

What a tremendous expansion for a man to have witnessed in his lifetime.

I knew all your famous prime ministers. When I was an under-secretary of state, I met Sir Wilfrid Laurier and he had with him as an unknown private secretary, one who became my cherished friend for so many years of peace and war—Mr. Mackenzie King.

I had very close and agreeable personal talks with Sir Robert Borden and Mr. Bennett; and now I am here at the invitation of Mr. St. Laurent who is so widely esteemed in his native land and has an influence for good throughout the world.

This morning with my friend Mr. Eden and with Lord Cherwell, I attended a meeting of the Canadian cabinet. This is the third time I have taken my place at that very large and comfortable table.

As I am a Canadian privy councillor, a rather rare bird, there was hardly any secret that your ministers could not tell me if there had been time. But nowadays there is so much to talk about among people who can talk together in real confidence and friendship that I expect there were many things we could not cover in our session of an hour and three-quarters.

I also had the pleasure of meeting a strong body of your journalists. I always get on with journalists. I suppose it is because I am one myself and they feel we are in the same trade.

I have had a lovely welcome from the people of Ottawa and it is a great comfort and stimulant to me to feel their warm, spontaneous spirit carrying with it approval of much that I have done in a very long life. I have always enjoyed coming to Ottawa, and also it might well be Quebec or Toronto or Montreal, and often regretted that as on this occasion, time and pressure have prevented me going further afield throughout your vast domain.

But I have been all over Canada in my time and I have most vivid pictures in my mind of many places from Halifax to Kicking Horse Valley and further on to Vancouver where I caught a lovely salmon—a beautiful salmon—in the harbor in about 20 minutes.

In fact I think one of the only important places that I have never visited is Fort Churchill, which was named after my ancestor John Churchill, first Duke of York, afterwards James II, as governor of the Hudson's Bay Company. All that part of the world is growing in importance, both commercial and strategic.

Nowadays, in fact, a wonderful thing about your country is that there is hardly any part of it where something new and very valuable may not spring to life, either on the surface of the soil or underneath it—a very large field but well worth looking after.

It must be very inspiring to all of you and especially to those who have the responsibility of the Canadian government upon their shoulders to feel that you are the architects and builders of a mighty structure whose future cannot be measured, but will certainly take its place in the first ranks of sovereign communities.

When all these hopes are fulfilled and all these glories come to you, do not forget the old land. Do not forget that little island lost among the northern mists which played so great a part in your early days and now regards you with such admiration and pride.

ANCIENT ELEMENT
There is also France to which a strong and ancient element in the Canadian people look with the respect which children should show to their parents. It must be a pleasure for French-Canadians to feel that the bitter quarrels between France and Britain have passed into history and that we have shared our other perils and sufferings as friends and allies in this fearful 20th century of strife.

I hope that those buoyant modern pilgrims—I believe that there are nearly a million of them—who have gone forth from the British Isles since the end of the last war to find a new home among you have brought you some knowledge of the place of honor which Canada holds in British hearts.

I can bring you good reports from the Old Country. Honor and victory have crowned our arms in the most terrible struggle the world has seen. The cost has been heavy in the flower of our race and in this you, too, have borne a grievous and splendid part.

CHEERED ON
It has also been heavy in material wealth and opportunities, and very great continuing exertions will be needed from all classes in our country if we are to keep the high position we still hold in the world.

We are cheered by the comradeship of great and young democracies like the Commonwealth of Australia, New Zealand and the great Dominion—if that expression has not become obsolete; I always like the sound of it very much—who gather round us in their strength and vitality.

We do not fear the future while we advance hand in hand together and in the lasting good company with the United States of America. We are resolved to do our duty, whatever it may cost and we believe that we shall not fail.

Let us move forward bound together by those enduring ties of language, literature and law

HUTTON, TESTIFIES HUSBAND'S RAGES 'PARALYZED' HER

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Actress Betty Hutton won a divorce from her second husband Thursday on testimony he flew into rages "beyond description" that once left her paralyzed for a month.

On the stand for only four minutes, the blonde performer said director Charles O'Curran "was a perfectionist, and a human being cannot be perfect."

and by those principles of parliamentary government and by that respect for the rights of the individual which are the characteristics of our civilization in every part of the world where it has been established. We give our thanks to Providence that we have come through so many trials and dangers that in this period of perplexity and peril, we have been granted the aid of the gleaming figure who is Queen of Canada and makes us in all lands of the British Commonwealth kinsmen, because we are her subjects, and thus are able to command the envy and respect of the world.

Jaroslav Drobny Wins Wimbledon Net Title

WIMBLEDON, Eng. (AP)—Jaroslav Drobny, 32-year-old self-exiled Czech, won the Wimbledon men's singles championship today with a 13-11, 4-6, 6-2, 9-7 victory over Ken Rosewall of Australia.

Drobny, playing in his third Wimbledon final, paced himself masterfully. He saved his best shots for times when he needed them the most against Rosewall, a 19-year-old who was only three years old when the left-handed Czech first played at Wimbledon.

The match—considered a major upset—was one of the finest played in Wimbledon's centre court since the mid-1930s, in the great days of Fred Perry, Don Budge and Bunny Austin.

WIMBLEDON, Eng. (UP)—Mrs. Margaret Osborn Dupont and Louise Brough breezed into the finals of the women's doubles of the All-England tennis championships today with 6-1, 6-1 victories over Mrs. Heather Brewer of Bermuda and Kay Hubbell of Boston.

In doubles Thursday the top-rated Aussie pair of Rex Hartwig and Mervyn Rose defeated Budge Patty of Los Angeles and Paris and Gardnar Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla., 4-6, 6-4, 6-2, 6-1, in one semi-final. In the other, the second-ranked pair of Tony Trabert of Cincinnati and Vic Seixas of Philadelphia trounced Ken Rosewall and Lew Hoad of Australia, 6-3, 7-5, 3-6, 4-7, 8-6.

In women's semi-finals Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., outgeneraled Doris Hart of Coral Gables, Fla., 2-6, 6-3, 6-3. Miss Connolly overpowered Mrs. Betty Pratt of South Orange, N.J., 6-1, 6-1, Thursday. The finals, along with all the doubles finals, will be played Saturday.

CARS PULLED FROM MEET

Track Feud In Open Now

A feud between three stock car associations on Vancouver Island has now broken wide open.

The war between stocker groups started recently when Vancouver Island Track Roadster Association members decided to run at Western Speedway.

Two up-Island associations, the Duncan Stocker Association and a Nanaimo branch of the British Columbia Automotive Sports Association, then joined forces and formulated plans to race every Saturday night and holidays at Shearings Speedway, near the Cobble Hill cut-off.

On Thursday the issue came to a head.

Both tracks had scheduled meets Thursday. When Western was rained out, several VITRA members went to the up-Island track with the intention of racing.

Gordie Barr, Ray Pottinger and Dave Francis were admitted to the meet, after their cars met track specifications, and these drivers proceeded to compete. One car which did not meet the track standard was refused entry to the paved oval.

CARS PULLED

Barr, Pottinger and Francis competed until VITRA president Ron Mayo ordered the members to take their cars out of the meet prior to the main event.

The members complied with the president's order and the Nanaimo and Duncan groups completed the scheduled events. The up-Island associations plan continued racing at Shearings and have issued an invitation for VITRA members to run at succeeding meets—if their cars meet the track specifications.

Chris Benson was the big winner, racing to first-place finishes in the second heat and main events. Hank Neilson, Jack Rumbley, John Paulsen, Lee Lynn and Roy Bell won other events.

Results follow:

Trophy Dash—1. Hank Neilson; 2. Dave Francis; 3. Alan McKewen.

First Heat—1. Jack Rumbley; 2. Hank Neilson; 3. Dave Francis.

Tillicums Lose Two

Thursday, July 1, was an unsuccessful day for Tillicums of the Senior B Men's Softball League.

Not only did Tillicums drop a close 2-1, 10-inning decision in an exhibition game at Central Park with Arrow Furniture of the senior A circuit, but they had their 14-game league winning streak shattered by Joe Fosters, who downed the league leaders, 8-4.

Fosters' Jack Girard was in fine form as he limited the heavy-hitting losers to only seven singles and struck out seven in going the distance for his eighth straight win. Ellis Achtam started for Tillicums but was relieved by Marc Cunningham in the fifth, when Fosters scored four runs.

In the exhibition game, Tillicums scored once in the seventh to take a 1-0 lead, but Arrows came back to tie it up in the bottom of the ninth when Whitney Turner singled to drive in Bob Embleton from second.

Don Robinson scored the winning run in the 10th when he stole home after moving to third on a long fly.

Bud Ross pitched the first four innings for Arrows, giving over to Archie Sluggert in the fifth. Beaulac went the distance for Tillicums.

Frances Wins Golf Title, Marlene Shares Headlines

GANTON, England (CP)—Frances Stephens of England, a former champion, won the British women's golf championship Thursday by beating another English girl, Elizabeth Price, 4 and 3 in the 36-hole final.

Marlene Stewart of Fonthill, Ont., who won the title last year, was beaten on the 22nd hole in the semi-final Wednesday by Miss Stephens. Miss Stephens was champion in 1949 and has twice been runner-up.

The long struggle in which the Canadian titleholder was eliminated is described as just about the best in years.

"One of the great matches in the history of the women's golf championship," says the London Daily Mail's Fred Pignon.

"A stupendous struggle," says Enid Wilson of the London Daily Telegraph. "A memorable match," says The Times.

"Perhaps the greatest and most stirring golf match one has ever seen," says Pat Ward-Thomas of the Manchester Guardian.

It's a Small Baseball World

"Way back in 1914, the Victoria baseball club had a pretty effective battery. It was George 'Highpockets' Kelly pitching and George Corkle catching. A lot of water has gone under the baseball bridge since that time, and Kelly has completed a brilliant major league career. But history was replayed at Athletic Park Thursday when the old battery was reunited. Kelly is now manager of the Wenatchee Chiefs, here for a series with Victoria Tyees, while Corkle is still living in Victoria. There were a lot of old yarms filling the Wenatchee dug-out Thursday when Kelly and Corkle met again and relived the past. (Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

MUSIAL TOPS RECORD HOMER PACE

Giants Win, But Willie Takes Off Hat to Stan

By FRED DOWN, United Press Sports Writer

Say hey, now Willie Mays, but darned if Stan Musial isn't still in the National League.

Willie the Wondrouse may be the spirit of the New York Giants but it's Stan the Man who's still hanging onto Babe Ruth's record home run race.

The 33-year-old St. Louis Cardinals' slugger hammered his 25th and 26th round-trippers of the campaign in a 9-2 rout of the Milwaukee Braves Thursday to go to two up on Mays in the National League home-run race and go slightly ahead of Ruth's record 1927 pace en route to 60 homers.

Musial's 26th homer came in his 70th game compared to Ruth's 73rd, and put the Cardinals' star in the best position to challenge Babe's mark in the last 10 years. Mays, meanwhile, went homerless in the three-game series with the Brooklyn Dodgers and now stands 24 homers in 71 games.

Musial's homers, combined with rookie first-baseman Joe Cunningham's two homers that produced four runs, paced the Cardinals to an easy victory despite an injury to 12-game winner Harvey Haddix.

Haddix was struck by a line drive off the bat of Joe Adcock, Cunningham, who drove in five runs with a three-run homer and a two-run single in his debut Wednesday night, drove in four Thursday.

FOUR-GAME LEAD
The New York Giants opened up a four-game lead in the National League with a 5-2 triumph over the Brooklyn Dodgers that completed a three-game sweep of their big series, while the New York Yankees shaded the Boston Red Sox, 8-7, in the other games played Thursday.

Outfielder Dusty Rhodes, who singled with the bases filled and two out to give the Giants a 13-inning triumph in the opener of the series Tuesday night, came through with a bases-filled single with one in the eighth Thursday, breaking up a 2-2 tie and paving the way for the Giant victory.

HOMERS HELP
Mickey Mantle, Hank Bauer and Andy Carey hit homers to spark a 12-hit attack that carried the Yankees to their victory over the Red Sox. Allie Reynolds, seeking his 10th straight victory, was staked to a 7-4 lead but failed to hold it, and Johnny Sain picked up his fourth win with a one-hit, three-inning relief job that closed out the game.

It looks "a good 10 years older than her 20 years," says The Times, calling Marlene an "emotionless Miss."

Said the Guardian: "Not only is Miss Stewart a great stroke player, one of the finest of all women's golf, with a short game in the highest class, but she has self-possession, control and judgment which are almost unbelievable in a girl of 20."

Fowler Captures Builders' Tee Title
H. E. Fowler won the Evans, Coleman & Johnson Trophy for capturing the low net championship in the sixth annual Victoria Building Industries' Exchange Golf Tournament at Colwood Golf Club recently.

George Kaiser was runner-up in the low net department.

For the second year in a row Bill Morgan won the B.C. Electric Trophy for low gross while Pat Frith was runner-up.

Tyees Show Kelly 'That Fence' Again

Lundberg, Perez Homer As Tyees Down Chiefs

Victoria 8, Wenatchee 3

By BILL WALKER

Long George Kelly returned to Victoria Thursday night for the first time in 39 years.

"I remembered the park," said the manager of the Wenatchee Chiefs. "I remembered it because of the short centre-field fence," added the first baseman of Victoria's professional team of 1914.

And shortly thereafter "Long George" was to have that fence again brought into prominence. For Don Lundberg of the Tyees hit two balls over the barrier into Pembroke Street and Tommy Perez hit one as the Tyees spanked the Chiefs, 8-3, in the night game of a scheduled holiday twin bill. The afternoon game was rained out.

And though Kelly's Chiefs failed to mark his return to the scene of his former glories in triumphant fashion, Kelly was otherwise a busy man as several old cronies showed up to wish him well.

A member of the Victoria professional team of 1914 and 1915, Kelly used to double at first base and on the hill.

LONG STAY

It was in 1915 that he got a call to the New York Giants as a first baseman, and he remained with the New Yorkers until 1926. He batted over .300 from 1921 through the '26 season before going to Cincinnati, where he remained until 1930.

Chicago and Brooklyn were other ports of call before his major league career came to an end in 1932.

Laterally for the past five years—he was with Oakland as a coach, accepting the Wenatchee managerial position this year.

If Kelly was a little shy on his background here—"it was such a long time ago," he confessed—he probably won't be before he leaves. For in the after-noon, he could be seen renewing acquaintances with some of his former playing mates and fans of that era.

And the reunion will likely continue for two more days, for the Chiefs are here until Saturday.

But as Kelly said: "Yes, I remembered that fence, because it ran across centre field. It was different."

GOOD EXAMPLES

All of which, as Kelly will agree, makes it a lush target for straightaway hitters. And Thursday night Lundberg and Perez were two prime examples.

Lundberg hit his first homer in the second to give the Tyees a 2-0 lead. Ron Jackson having doubled and scored on Neil Sheridan's two-bagger in the first.

A double by Mel Stein (off that same fence) and a single by Jackson made it 3-0 in the second.

Perez hit his four master in the third with Dain Clay on base by virtue of a single. Lundberg added his second in the fifth with Perez aboard.

LITTLE GRIEF

Actually lanky Hal Flinn, who is about the only Tyee who can match Kelly in height, didn't need all this help, as he had the Chiefs in control most of the evening.

Only single runs he allowed at a time, the Chiefs getting three hits in each of the fifth and seventh frames when they posed their most serious threats.

On another occasion in the fourth, Tyee shortstop Eddie Lake made a spectacular catch of a line drive off the bat of Jake Helmuth to double a runner off first and nip a threatened Wenatchee outburst in the bud.

Tonight the two clubs meet again at 8, with a split double bill scheduled Saturday at 2 and 8.

"Highpockets" Kelly will be anxious to renew more acquaintances. "It's been such a long time."

Service Clubs Aid Tyees

Victoria Tyees' second-half ticket plan for Western International Baseball League games appears to have met with success—even before a ticket has been sold.

Following Wednesday's announcement in the Times that the club was prepared to sell season tickets for all second-half games at a cost of $12.50 to the purchaser, two local service clubs pledged their support to the plan. And many fans did likewise.

Club general manager Reg Patterson announced Thursday night that the Gyro Club had taken the project in hand and that the Kiwanis Club had followed suit.

Under arrangements with the service clubs, or any other similar organization wishing to assist in the endeavour, the sum of $2.50 will be retained by the clubs for their own individual charities.

The season tickets will also be available today at the Central Ticket Bureau, Athletic Park, and from Tyee Booster Club members.

Under the proposed new schedule as released Thursday by WIL president Robert Abel, the Tyees will play 35 games at home in the second half.

"Those who have been saying that professional baseball is too expensive can't say we aren't willing to go more than halfway," commented club president Arthur Cox.

"Under this plan baseball will cost them less than 40 cents a game."

Although it is definite that some player changes are contemplated, only one move in that regard was made over the holiday.

Infielder Elmer Clow, who was signed as a free agent following Calgary's withdrawal from the league, was released.

Esks Win; Greco Sold To Solons

Edmonton and Lewiston posted victories in rain abbreviated Western International League baseball Thursday night.

Edmonton trimmed Tri-City 7-6 and 9-5 in a Dominion Day twin bill at Edmonton and Lewiston shut out Salem 5-0.

Rain washed out a scheduled doubleheader between league-leading Vancouver and runner-up Yakima.

On the player front, the Vancouver Capilanos have signed Eddie Murphy, former Spokane centre fielder and sold pitcher Bill Franks and outfielder Dick Greco to Salem. K. Chorlton has also decided to remain with the Caps rather than report to Seattle of the Coast League.

Auto Speed Mark

DETROIT (AP)—A closed course auto speed record of 182.35 miles an hour was set Wednesday at the Chrysler engineering proving grounds near Chelsea, Mich. The mark was hung up by Sam Hanke, a participant in nine Indianapolis 500-mile races. He drove a Kurtis Kraft racing car powered with a special 447-horsepower V-8 engine. The previous mark was 179.386 mph.

Farmers Compete In Island Tournney

Farmer Construction, the class of lower Vancouver trail this week-end.

 The locals will see their first tournament action this season Satenay holiday Island tournney at the up-Island centre. They meet Powell River in a first-

 Other Island teams entered in the tournney are Courtenay
 Legion, Parksville Loggers,
 Comox Tigers, Nanaimo,
 Campbell River Athletics and Chemainus.
 The tournney winner will receive $600. Second prize money is $200. Third and fourth place clubs will each take home $100.
 From their showing so far this season against outside oppofinal. The club has lost only two games, both at Parksville, and hold six victories over the Loggers in Vancouver Island

By TONY BRISTOWE

For the second successive year, Victoria beat Van-
 Their win Thursday was by a margin of 77 runs, in a low-scoring game, but under the circumstances a well-

At the scheduled time of 10:30 many parts of the ground were under water. By 1 o'clock the turf had dried out enough for a start to be made, and Victoria chose to bat.

Vancouver's opening attack of Jenson and Stead was accurate, but by painstaking methods, 34 runs were acquired before the first Victoria wicket fell, when the wicket was bowled by Akroyd for 20.

The next four wickets fell at regular intervals, the damage being caused by Akroyd's slow left-arm spinners, and 81 for five was not much of a score.
 However, Hyde-Lay, Seals and Moss all indulged in some good hitting so that when Moss left after scoring 31 invaluable runs, 150 were on the board.

Ellis and Richards made several defiant gestures, and the final total of 168 was considerably better than had been promised earlier. Akroyd, with five for 73, was the most successful of the Vancouver bowlers. Jesson also bowled well, and his figures of one for 17 scarcely represented his real worth.

CONFIDENT
 After tea Victoria took the field confidently, for their score on the soft, wet ground was a very respectable one. Twamley and Ellis opened the bowling to Atkins and Akroyd.

These two played easily enough, until Ellis struck a good length in his third over. Vancouver were then soon in trouble.

However, in tournament com-feated once it is eliminated.

 Farmers' manager, Ed Ash, was undecided today who would handle pitching duties for the game against Powell River, although he did intimate it would be either hard-throwing Norm Forbes or left-hander Don Donahue.

Lowell Hodges and Bill Garner will also be available, but it is doubtful if fastballing
 Paul Beck will be available.
 Beck's arm is not yet fully recovered from an early-season injury.

Hard-hitting Charlie Boyd and Jim Harford, both currently batting at a 390 pace, will lead the club's attack.

Boyd, who previously was with Campbell River, has hit safely 16 times in 41 trips to the plate and has six home runs, one triple and four doubles.

Marjorie Lowe Contest Winner As 1954 Cowichan Lumber Queen

Bill McColl Wins Duncan Golf Tourney

Joe Pryke Tops In Pro Ranks

DUNCAN — Bill McColl, Victoria, former city champion, emerged Thursday as winner of the second annual Cowichan open golf tournament, held on the Cowichan Golf and Country Club course.

The new champion played excellent golf, with a lot of competition coming from the 45 other competitors.

He finished with a low gross of 136.

Runner-up was Gordon Whan, Duncan, who lost out by one with a score of 137. Last year's champion, Jack Egger, Duncan, made a score of 150.

The low pro was Joe Pryke, Gorge Vale, Victoria, who played a smooth game, finishing with 142 gross, minus handicap of 18, to get a 124 net.

The 26-hole medal tournament brought entries from all over Vancouver Island and the Mainland. A large gallery watched first-class golf shots and fine scores made in perfect weather. Ben Colk, Vancouver, was considered the most unfortunate player of the day. Playing excellent golf, he was approaching the 18th hole when he suddenly had a bad attack of toothache and had to throw in his clubs.

The championship award was presented by the president of the Cowichan club, Angus Campbell.

Simon, handled by Miss Jill Dunlop, of Crofton, was runner-up and took the two reserve championship ribbons.

This year's show, judged by Mrs. Pamela Scott-Reid, of Vancouver, attracted a good crowd of spectators despite unfavorable weather at the start.

More than 60 horses were entered. Many were from Victoria. Results of the show follow.

Harry Brown, chairman of the B.C. Weight Lifters Association, Vancouver, explained to a spellbound audience the technicalities of Hepburn's performance. Hepburn began by lifting 225 pounds for a two hand clean and press. His final contribution to the "salute of champions" show, theme of this year's celebration, was to lift 305 pounds in a two hands clean and jerk.

This performance was only a warming up for the evening show when Hepburn took the weights to 345 pounds, which won him the title of world champion last year by defeating John Davies' 17-year-old American record.

371-POUND LIFT

Brown told the audience that Hepburn won the title by lifting 371 pounds, and that his aim was to lift 400 pounds, which is equivalent to a track man running a four-minute mile.

Another big feature of the day's packed events was the loggers' sports with prizes totaling $1,000. World tree climbing Dan Sailor once again retained the VI Coach Lines trophy in the tree climb event. Phil Whitaker, world open chopping champion, Duncan, also won his event.

Sailor also competed and won at Ladysmith.

The weatherman played the most important part in the day's celebrations. During the early morning it looked as if the program would have to be canceled, but at noon the clouds began to clear, and late in the afternoon the sun shone.

Another big event during the day was the crowning of the Cowichan Lumber Queen. During the afternoon show the 11 young ladies paraded before the audience. In the evening the girls again made an appearance, to hear who had won.

Miss Marjorie Lowe, 19, was picked the winner.

Miss Lowe is a Canadian Bank of Commerce employee at Duncan. Besides receiving the crown she also won a $100 cash prize. She will have the chance to enter for the Miss PNE contest in Vancouver.

North Cowichan Requests Passed

NANAIMO (CP) — William Henderson, mayor of Cumberland, on Wednesday was elected president of the Association of Vancouver Island Municipalities.

Maj. Gen. C. A. F. Murison, reeve of North Cowichan, succeeds Mr. Henderson as vice-president. A. Vandecasteyen, clerk of North Cowichan, was returned as secretary.

These included a hardy perennial — a resolution asking that the Municipal Act be changed to permit municipalities to lease forest lands on a 99-year basis.

Another proposed that the Union of B.C. Municipalities reconsider its position on the 80-20 school costs formula and substituting in its place a scale of grants in line with the Cameron Report on a percentage basis instead of a fixed sum.

Third was to change the Municipal Act to permit municipal reserve funds to be invested with trust companies to obtain the benefit of higher interest rates.

3,000 Brave Drizzle At Ladysmith Sports

Loggers' Competitions, Queen Crowning Popular on Dominion Day-Jubilee Program

LADYSMITH — Despite cool, rainy weather, Ladysmith residents and their friends from neighboring towns turned out by the thousands Wednesday and Thursday to help the city celebrate the 50th anniversary of its incorporation.

The program opened Wednesday evening with a queen crowning ceremony and civic banquet, and continued all day Thursday with children's sports, loggers' sports, a parade, an open air concert and grand jubilee ball.

Saturday evening there will be a dance in the Legion Memorial Hall to wind up the jubilee celebration.

Rain Wednesday night forced the transfer of the queen crowning ceremony and concert from an open-air stage into the Agricultural Hall, but this was the only concession made to the weather.

HOLD TO PROGRAM

Thursday there was a fine drizzle of rain through most of the day. But it failed to keep the crowds away and the whole program was run off on schedule.

A crowd of approximately 3,000 watched breathlessly while Danny Sailor, billed as the world champion tree climber, danced the Charleston on top of a 120-foot spar tree.

This was part of a daring demonstration which he presented after climbing the tree and descending in 47 2/5 seconds, nearly a full minute less than his nearest competitor, Ike Greenwell, who took one minute, 38 3/5 seconds. Third place went to C. Alm, who scored one minute, 48 3/5 seconds.

The tree climb provided a fitting climax to an outstanding program of logging sports conducted by Ladysmith sub-local of Local 180 IWA. Largest entry was in the power saw bucking competitions, so preliminaries in that section were run off in the morning, leaving the finals for the keenly competitive afternoon show.

Thursday evening a capacity crowd turned out to the big grandstand in the agricultural field to witness a variety program staged by Victoria artists under the direction of "Andy" Anderson.

Taking part were the Ly-senko dancers, Gordon Bentness, Diane and Marie Tibbets, Roly Walsh, Peggy Schone, dancers from the Florence Clough Academy, and Betts and her Buddies.

LOOK TO FUTURE

Mayor Leonard Ryan sounded the keynote of the whole celebration Wednesday evening when he told a representative crowd at the civic banquet to look to the future rather than the past on this anniversary occasion.

He said these were days of expansion for Canada and for British Columbia and that no opportunity should be overlooked to insure that Ladysmith shared in that expansion and progress.

He spoke of the recent vote which authorized the district school board to build a new elementary school in Ladysmith. The city had a fine new junior-senior high school, a new city hall and a drive was under way to build a new hospital. With the new school the city would have public buildings to match those of any community, he said.

Banquet guests who brought anniversary greetings to the city were Reeve C. A. P. Murison of North Cowichan, Ald. W. McGregor of Nanaimo, Robert Strachan, M.L.A. and Tom Young, representing Chemainus division of MacMillan & Bloedel.

Others were Joe Morris, provincial president of the IWA and ex-alderman of Ladysmith; Roy Chamberlin, chairman of the board of trustees of School District 67, Ladysmith; and C. Nash, manager of the Nanaimo division of the B.C. Power Commission.

Motorcycle Stunt Man Injured

LADYSMITH — Ian Hjorslev, 23, Victoria Motorcycle Club rider, was taken to Ladysmith General Hospital Thursday afternoon when he crashed during a Dominion Day motorcycle rodeo here.

The spectacular accident was the only incident to mar a full afternoon of out-door entertainment.

He drove his motorcycle through a flaming wooden wall as climax to a long program of stunt riding by club members.

After he crashed through the wall — his throttle apparently jammed in the full open position, and he raced across the field to shoot over a steep embankment at the north end of the Agricultural Grounds.

He fell from the bike as it cleared the bank, and landed amongst some small trees. Thursday night his condition was reported as serious but not critical. It is expected he will return to Victoria in a few days.

Anzus Asks Action On Defense Pact

U.S., Australia,
N.Z. Issue Call

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States, Australia and New Zealand called Wednesday for "immediate action" to establish a collective defense arrangement in Communist-threatened southeast Asia.

The three governments jointly issued this call after a meeting of State Secretary Dulles, Australian External Affairs Minister Richard G. Casey and New Zealand Ambassador Leslie K. Munro.

The state department said "continuing consultations" will go on among the three governments.

The statement, approved by the three countries, urged "immediate action to bring about the early establishment of collective defense in southeast Asia."

The state department announcement pointed out that "the three participating countries are 'vitaly concerned' about developments in the region. The statement added: 'The Australian and New Zealand representatives expressed satisfaction with the statement by President Eisenhower and Sir Winston Churchill that plans for collective defense in southeast Asia should be pressed forward.'"

Britain and the United States are scheduled to begin informal diplomatic talks within the next few days to carry out Churchill's promise to "press forward" with consideration of the southeast Asia defense arrangement.

Playgrounds Open Monday

City playgrounds will open Monday morning, chief supervisor Gordon Hartley announced.

Central and Beacon Hill Parks will be supervised from 9:30 a.m. Monday, while Oaklands, Banfield, Hollywood and James Bay Parks will open at 1:30 p.m. Monday.

Equipment will be moved in by outside workers today.

Tennis classes will start Wednesday, July 7, at 2 p.m. in Central Park.

Acting Teaches Self-Expression

Self-expression is to be learned by Victoria kiddies through summer school classes at Langham Court Theatre, commencing July 5. Shown acting out a scene from a puppet play are Patsy Kelley, Jeanne Belcher, Len Lauk, John Winther and Bill Weldon. Mr. Lauk and Mr. Winther are instructors. (Times photo by Halkett.)

THEATRE SCHOOL TO USE EUROPEAN DEVICE

Puppets to Teach Moppets

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

A novel method for teaching young children to express themselves and feel at home on the stage will be employed by Gwen Downes when Summer School of Theatre classes commence July 5 at Langham Court Theatre, home of the Victoria Theatre Guild.

Mrs. Downes, who will instruct the younger children in speech by use of versatile and clever hand puppets, will apply a device which she has seen used to great effect in Europe.

Following performance of a puppet play, the children will assume puppet masks identical with the puppet characters, and on a stage especially framed down to the proportions and effect of a puppet stage, will act out the play themselves.

Mrs. Downes points out that in this way, every child attending the classes will be given an opportunity to take an active part in performances.

For many years a member of the Victoria Little Theatre and later the Victoria Theatre Guild, Mrs. Downes has also acted professionally with both York and Totem Theatre companies and also last year at the Pentecost Summer Theatre directed by Ian Thorne. She is a well-known monologist and was last seen in the Intimate Stage production of "Phoenix Too Frequent" at the Arts Centre.

OTHER INSTRUCTORS

Instructing in acting and stagecraft of all kinds will be Len Lauk and John Winther. Mr. Lauk has been with the UBC Players and toured with them. His professional experience includes seasons with the Everyman Repertory group and Avon Theatre in Vancouver and a Canadian tour with "Hamlet" in the Great Plays Company. He has also won two best actor awards in festivals.

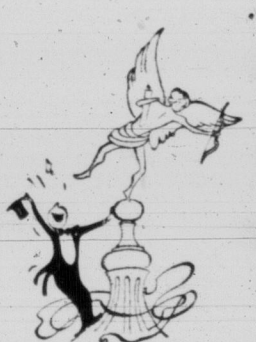

Mr. Winther was born in Denmark and studied the art of the theatre in Copenhagen with one of Denmark's best directors from the Royal Theatre. He has worked professionally in Denmark and been connected with groups all over Canada. He won the "best director" award in this year's South Vancouver Island Drama Festival.

The instructors emphasize that, while the full course runs through to Sept. 1, a partial course may be taken with corresponding adjustment in the moderate fee. They are also making budget terms available so that youngsters wishing to pay for the course out of summer earnings may do so a little at a time.

In addition to the day classes for three age groups from nine to 18, there will be night classes for adults who wish to study acting and directing techniques.

The Summer School of Theatre, which has had full support and co-operation from the Victoria School Board and Community Drama Office, is now conducting auditions at 805 Langham Court, off Rockland between Linden and Moss. Anyone interested may attend between the hours of 10 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., and at night from 6

Proof against
RAIN and REVELLERS

Anyone who ever visited London knows Piccadilly Circus, and the famous statue of Eros, God of Love, poised above its central fountain. This statue has taken a lot of punishment during the past sixty years, from both practical jokes and London smog. But because the sculptor cast it in aluminum—it was the first large statue to be cast in the "new metal"—it has come safely through the years. When it was cleaned up for the Coronation, it gleamed as freshly as ever. The enduring beauty of aluminum has meanwhile made it a favorite of modern architects, furniture designers, decorators too. ## SAYS McCARTHY RAMBLES ON TV

Former Times' Newsboy Bosses U.S. TV Station

A man who used to deliver the Times 40 years ago and who is now news director of a large radio and TV station in Madison, Wis., said here today that in interviews Senator McCarthy "rambles, and has to be brought back by newspapermen."

Reginald Streeter, 49, native of Victoria, has interviewed the Wisconsin senator several times.

Mr. Streeter believes McCarthy's political stature has been "hurt" by his performances during the televised McCarthy-Army hearings.

Rural Wisconsin areas were still largely pro-McCarthy, says Mr. Streeter, but this was not the case with metropolitan districts.

Mr. Streeter, who had an Oak Bay route for the Times, is here for a week with his wife visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Streeter, 3115 Orillia. Mr. Streeter left Victoria at the age of 19 and worked in California, Hawaii and Chicago.

Among his other duties the former Times carrier does TV cartooning for his station. He recalled today that the first cartoon he ever drew was bought by famed Times editor the late Benny Nicholas "for two dollars."

Dr. Sharp, Vancouver, Named to UBC Senate

The provincial government has appointed Dr. R. F. Sharp, Vancouver, to the senate of the University of British Columbia to complete the term of Hugh N. MacCorkindale.

Mr. MacCorkindale's appointment was to March, 1955. He retired today as superintendent of schools for Vancouver City, and his successor in that position, Mr. Sharp, also took over the senatorship.

Red Spies Penetrated Aussie Foreign Office

Former MVD Chief Reveals Activities Before Commission; Names Kept Secret

MELBOURNE, Australia (UP)—Former Soviet secret police chief for Australia, Vladimir M. Petrov, testified today that a Soviet spy network penetrated the Australian foreign ministry.

Petrov, testifying before a Royal Commission investigating Soviet espionage in Australia, said he had paid agents in the foreign office before he renounced Russia and asked political asylum here.

He said he had paid out large sums of money for diplomatic secrets, particularly concerning Australian relations with the United States and Britain.

The names of the agents in the foreign office were not made public. Petrov wrote them on slips of paper and passed them to commission members who said only that the code name of the chief informant began with "K."

Petrov said Russia received the information from friends in the external affairs department before and after he arrived.

REBUKED BY MOSCOW

Some of his informers became frightened or moved to other positions of less value to the Soviet, he said, and he once received a severe rebuke from Moscow for failure to get more information.

He attributed the lack of information to the improved efficiency of the Australian security service, but said at least three persons were in his pay and that he paid out large sums of money—"once a very large amount."

Petrov described the Soviet methods of screening prospective Soviet agents and said he checked their talkativeness in drink and their extramarital relations and income.

Many suggestions came from Moscow including some names of innocent people who rejected espionage advances. The former secret police chief said Russian agents also used repatriation activities to cover their spying work.

RCAF Promotes W-C A. M. Jardine To Group Captain

Wing Commander Alexander Myles Jardine, AFC, 40, of Victoria, has been promoted to the rank of group captain. It was announced today by air force headquarters.

Educated at Victoria, GC Jardine joined the RAF in 1935 and graduated as a pilot in 1936. He served with the RAF in the Far East from 1937 to 1942. In 1942 he was taken captive by the Japanese at Java, and remained a prisoner of war for three years. GC Jardine was returned to the United Kingdom in 1945 and transferred to the RCAF in 1946.

Since 1946 GC Jardine has held senior staff appointments at Patricia Bay, Toronto, Trenton, and at the Royal Military College, Kingston.

GC Jardine is currently in charge of organization and management in the directorate of organization and establishment at air force headquarters, Ottawa.

Good English Job Requisite, Ford Chief Says

BIGWIN INN, Ont. (CP)—To get a job, improve your English, even if the job seems to call more for skilled hands than for a skilled tongue.

This advice, in effect, was given today by T. J. Emmert, of Windsor, Ont., in an address prepared for delivery to the annual convention of the Ontario Urban and Rural School Trustees Association.

Mr. Emmert, executive vice-president, Ford Motor Company of Canada, said the superintendent of Ford's trade school rejects any applicant with low marks in English, because he has found that use of sloppy English indicates a sloppy mind.

RCAF Reserve Work Slows for Summer

By ROY THORSEN

Tempo of operations at the usually busy RCAF Urban Centre on Yates Street, headquarters of reserve No. 2455 Aircraft Control and Warning Squadron, has been throttled down for the next two months.

"There will be a slow-down until next September," said Flt. Lieut. Al M. Davies, adjutant of the squadron that operates the island airforce "nerve centre". Practical and administration work will continue at the usual pace but the lecture program has been suspended until after the holiday months.

First group of the squadron to attend summer training at airforce stations in the United States will return this weekend. Thirty-three men and women reservists will leave here on the weekend by air, car, bus or train for a two-week training course at one B.C. and two U.S. centres. No other personnel are slated for out-of-town summer courses.

Flt. Lieut. Davies said the reservists will go to fully active stations to test themselves on what they have been learning all year.

To be practically tested in radar operations at McChord Field, Wash., will be Flight Officers E. R. Fisher, K. V. Cutler, R. J. McIntosh and A. R. Barnett; Sgt. E. J. Dalzell, Cpl. N. F. Butt; LACs G. W. Bowden, G. P. McColl, C. G. Shearing and H. R. Walker; LACs J. M. McDonald and M. F. Richdale; Airmen W. S. Ward, P. J. Daley and G. L. Patterson; Airmen I. M. Elliott, H. Lum, F. J. Gilroy, C. Glidebrand, D. E. Williams, O. H. Williams, H. Nipp, M. I. Hardy, M. F. Leese, J. L. Southwell and M. L. White.

To attend at Baldy Hughes, Northern B.C. for technical training will be LACs H. A. Fraser and K. W. Middleton.

Going to Boise, Idaho, for administration and allied trades

Manitoban Drives Tractor 900 Miles To See Stampede

CALGARY (CP) — A two-week, 900-mile trip by farm tractor ended here today for Walter (Watty) Forsyth, 86-year-old former hotelman, farmer and cattle buyer, when he rolled into Calgary to see the famous stampede, a show he has been waiting to see since 1912.

Up until this year, he felt he was too busy to visit the big western show.

This year, however, things had eased off for the Rapid City, Man., man and he hitched up a home-made trailer to his farm tractor and started merrily off down the highway for Calgary.

He took his time on the way, he said, and enjoyed the trip.

Two Victorians Fined For Careless Driving

Two Victoria men each were fined $35 in the city court Wednesday on charges of careless driving.

The first, Charles John Clifford, 49 Pilot, barely missed hitting a parked car when he drove through a stop sign on Oswego at Superior, police said.

William E. Townsley, 667 Ralph, collided with the rear of another car on Douglas, causing moderate damage, according to police.

NEW YORK (AP) — Eleanor Roosevelt announced Thursday she has canceled a one-month trip to Russia because Soviet officials have failed to grant a visa for a trained newspaperman or Russian-speaking writer to accompany her. ## IT'S TOO DASHED BAD, BUT—

Knaked Knobby Knees Knot Too Popular

By TONY DICKASON

There's a slightly short shortage of men's shorts here. This short situation doesn't apply to the khaki type the neighbor sports when garden grubbing, but the classically styled shorts becoming increasingly popular in southern areas and, somewhat, in eastern Canada's summer-hot climate.

Consensus among leading haberdashers here is that males wearing shorts is a device of a good idea, but that it would take a man of considerable aplomb to, say, stroll down Douglas Street in a dark jacket, pork-pie hat and taitan shorts.

If this sounds quaint, remember it is done in California.

One men's clothing establishment said they had "one or two calls" for the scintilating shorts, but these were from out-of-town visitors.

Shorts are constantly worn, of course, in such places as tennis courts. But the idea of perspiring males substituting shorts for blanket-like full-length trousers in hot weather, for example, is new.

Formal shorts are now in vogue also. A white dinner jacket, black tie and shorts with satin side-strips have been observed perambulating through some of California's lush evening bistros, or adorning the cushy leather of bar stools.

They sound "real cool."

WARM, INFORMAL GREETING

It's Like Coming Home Flo Tells Welcomers

A friendly, informal, and enthusiastic welcome awaited Flo Chadwick when the world-famous endurance swimmer arrived via TCA from Seattle at Patricia Bay Airport Thursday morning.

"Welcome, Flo!" read the sign on the door of the new 1954 Oldsmobile which is on loan to her from Wilson Motors during her stay in Victoria; and "Welcome, Flo!" were the words on the lips of the crowd on hand to watch her arrive.

Flo herself summed up her feelings simply: "I'm so glad to be here. I feel I've come home."

With her was her mother, Mrs. Mary Chadwick, who, at the last minute, arranged to accompany her daughter for the first two weeks of her training grind. Mrs. Chadwick was obviously touched by the warmth of the welcome for her daughter.

First to greet Miss Chadwick and her mother were officials of the British America Paint Co. and The Times, co-sponsors of the forthcoming attempt to swim from Victoria to Port Angeles.

If the famous swimmer succeeds, she will be awarded $10,000; she is guaranteed $7,500 for making the attempt.

PENDRAYS ON HAND

Representing Bapco at the airport were J. Carl Pendray, president; Herbert J. Pendray, vice-president; and Allan Pendray, general manager.

Times publisher Stuart Keate headed the welcoming delegation from this newspaper.

Flo's two coaches for the swim, Archie McKinnon and Jack Todd, were among the first to greet her. For Archie, Flo had a large kiss and an affectionate hug.

Flo made no boasts about her chances of success; but Archie said: "Of course she'll make it."

R. B. Wilson, president of Wilson Motors Ltd., handed Flo the keys to the Oldsmobile convertible. Bruce Tingley, assistant manager of the Hudson's Bay Co. retail store here, presented her with a blanket coat, one of two which are gifts from the company.

FUR-LED SUIT

On Saturday the Bay will give her another present—a "fur-lined" bathing suit.

After Flo cleared customs and immigration, and submitted to a barrage of still and motion pictures and radio interviews, she led a 10-car caravan into Victoria. The motorcade drove through city streets before going to Flo's training camp at Cadboro Bay.

Cloudy skies and a threat of rain did nothing to dampen Flo's enthusiasm.

"I don't care if it rains," she said. "I'm going to get wet anyway."

"I can hardly wait to get into the water and start working," she added.

Flo Chadwick

swimming apparel consisted of a black one-piece suit, white bathing cap and green rubber goggles.

She strode quickly into the water at 3.16, waded to the crowd and began her swim.

Miss Chadwick started off with a surprisingly fast burst of speed, but soon slowed down to the rhythmic eight-beat crawl that propels her through the water at two miles per hour.

After she had been in the water for five minutes, she informed McKinnon she would like to stay in for an hour.

Her powerful arms and legs carried her out towards Ten Mile Point. A gusty wind and slight chop on the water did not disturb her methodical stroke or upset her timing.

After swimming straight out for slightly more than a mile, she crossed over toward the Yacht Club, reversed her course again and then zig-zagged back to her starting point, timing herself so that it was an hour almost to the minute when she emerged from the water, shivering a little but smiling broadly.

COACH ENTHUSIASTIC

After urging Miss Chadwick to hurry under a hot shower, McKinnon expressed beaming enthusiasm about her swimming. "The girl is marvelous," he said. "The continuity of her stroke is unbelievable and she seemed to enjoy herself every minute she was in the water."

Miss Chadwick showed amazing recuperative powers as she was chatting with newsmen a half hour after the swim, having warmed up under a steamy hot shower.

Miss Chadwick will swim two practice sessions daily, gradually increasing the duration and distances of the swims.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

It's all right now, sun. You can come out of hiding. We are all safely in our offices, where you can't do us any harm.

One word description of the weather on Dominion Day: Light.

Wistful street scene Wednesday afternoon: a group of U.S. tourists pressing their noses against the window of a store featuring fine bone china, their wallets throbbing painfully.

Comment from one of said tourists: "There's one thing about the Victoria merchants, you can't say they're after the almighty dollar."

It is certainly obvious the civic strike is over. They're tearing up the streets once more.

Addenda to the "Little Bit of Old England Department." From Chemainus comes this restrained message:

"I lived in Victoria for 25 years and I now visit it occasionally. What I always missed after coming to Canada from my home town in England were THEATRES! Real honest to goodness acting on the legitimate stage."

"I also miss what any seaside resort in England would have—gardens on the sea front and a band."

"As a visitor to Victoria, I miss a place to park my car while spending my money in Victoria, without getting a parking ticket."

"Yours helpfully,

DOROTHY SPURR."

I don't know what Miss Spurr is complaining about. After all, doesn't she want to take home a souvenir of Victoria? And what more appropriate souvenir than a genuine, authentic parking ticket?

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

John Andrew Templeton, HMCS Naden, was fined $250 for impaired driving and an additional $25 for not holding a valid driver's license, when he appeared in Oak Bay police court today. Police said he was arrested as he drove on Cadboro Bay Road, in Oak Bay.

mentarily on a weighing machine outside the store, and left by mistake. Vera E. Sloss, 4030 Ridgeway Avenue, Montreal 26, Quebec, will give a reward to the finder.

A faulty fuel oil pump in a garage at 1009 Terrace caught fire Wednesday night and burned the garage to a cinder.

Damage was estimated at $500.

Ronald Myers Wallbank, 3027 Jackson, was fined $20 in city police court for exceeding the 30 mile an hour speed limit on Hillside. Police say he was paced at from 45 to 50 miles an hour.

A baby buggy was used to take nine-year-old Gerry McKinnon, 658 Niagara, to St. Joseph's Hospital emergency ward at 3 p.m. Wednesday, after he fell from a tree while playing at Beacon Hill Park.

Hospital authorities reported his right leg broken and said his condition today was good.

J. E. Neely was chosen grand councillor of the United Commercial Travellers Association at the recent convention held in Milwaukee, while Mrs. Phoebe Noble was named president of the Ladies' Grand Auxiliary.

Mr. Neely and W. L. Woodhouse of Victoria have just returned from the sessions.

For driving on a Superior Street sidewalk, Douglas James H. Doidge, 1588 Montrose, paid a fine of $2.50 in city police court today. He told the court the regular driveway across the sidewalk was obstructed.

Collision involving three cars and estimated $900 damage at Government and Bay Street, east John B. Thornber, 113 Egerton Road, $10 in city police court today when he pleaded guilty to careless driving. His driver's license was also suspended.

Two other city men paid fines of $35 on similar charges. They were Frank William Farrow, HMCS Dockyard and Charles H. Lumley, 728 Hillside, whose driver's licenses were also suspended.

Elderly Woman Traffic Victim

Condition of Mrs. Priscilla J. Smith, 76, 1024 McClure, struck late Thursday by a car at Port and Blanshard, was reported "fair" by Jubilee Hospital authorities today.

The elderly woman, who has no Victoria relatives, was rushed to emergency with head injuries at 10:47 p.m.

Police said driver of the car was Angus DeBois, 723 Field.

Miss Chadwick's Husband-To-Be

On the eve of her departure for Victoria, Florence Chadwick announced her engagement to F. Wallace Taber, above, big game hunter, writer and lecturer. But they don't see each other again until October, when he finishes a safari in Africa and she has finished her summer swimming engagements. Miss Chadwick came out of retirement for the Bapco-Times swim and it's quite likely she'll abandon further big swim attempts after her marriage.

Illegal Selling Of Milk Charged

Loss Leader Probe Hears
Brief From Small Merchants

William Palmer, representing the Independent Merchants' Co-operative Association, told the Restrictive Trade Practices Commission here today milk is being sold below the price set by law in Victoria retail outlets.

Mr. Palmer said B.C.'s minimum loss act specified that profit on milk and other goods be at least 5 per cent. He said it is being distributed to homes at 24 cents a quart, and to stores at 23 cents. Store profit is 1 cent a quart, he said.

"The stores are forced to sell this commodity at the same level as the distributor sells it to the homes," he said.

"Distributors are making vast profits, and the small retail stores are on the short end of the stick," said Mr. Palmer.

The commission, which is sitting today only in Victoria, will be in Vancouver Monday as part of its cross-country survey of loss-leader practices.

DEFINE 'LOSS LEADER'

The commission is attempting to define a "loss-leader" and to determine whether the practice is to the benefit of Canada's buying public.

A loss-leader is an article sold either below cost, or below sold and operating expenses, used to entice buyers into a store.

Mr. Palmer spoke for 61 Victoria grocery and confectionary owners. He said price maintenance, now outlawed by the federal government, "is the answer to prevent small businesses from going out of business."

Mr. Palmer said other "loss-leaders" appearing in chain stores, in Victoria were cigarettes, ice cream, eggs and certain tinned foods.

He said "monopolies" are gaining strength in the city by the use of loss-leader tactics, and that they will "push the small merchants out."

Wicks' Absence May Delay City Arbitration

Minister to Name
Dispute Official

It may be some time before Labor Minister Lyle Wicks names an arbitrator to settle the wage dispute between the city and its outside workers.

City solicitor Arthur Patton and union solicitor Ronald Grant said today they will seek an interview with the minister to outline the desire of both parties to have him name an Industrial Inquiry Commission under the Labor Relations Act, whose decision will be final and binding on both.

Mr. Wicks was away from the Parliament Buildings today and his office could give no assurance he would be back until after next week.

Meanwhile, Victoria is taking on its customary spruce appearance, following a period of scruffiness resulting from the outside workers' strike.

Strikers, called back to their jobs Wednesday afternoon while their wage dispute with the city is resolved by arbitration, returned to work with a will.

BASKETS BACK

Street cleaners and garbage vans concentrated on the downtown area Wednesday afternoon and had the city looking clean for the Dominion Day holiday.

A crew from the parks department worked all night Wednesday in the pouring rain so that Victoria's famous hanging flower basket would add color to the affair.

Other parksmen gave up their holiday to mow and water boulevard and park areas which went uncared for during the 14-day walkout.

Household garbage collection has been resumed where it left off. Those who had their garbage cans collected on the day before the strike will be the last to have their cans collected now the men are back to work. It is expected it will take another eight or nine days before everybody's garbage has been collected and the regular schedule is resumed.

Public works crews gave special attention Wednesday to the few "trouble spots" which resulted while they were away from work. Today they were concentrating on regular work again.

Two 'Perfect' Shots At Gyro Competition

One inch made the difference between two winners and three winners at the Gyro "Hole-in-One" contest Thursday night at Central Junior High School.

A crowd of almost 800 saw two Victorians, one an amateur and the other a professional golfer, each score a hole-in-one, and of course as a third man missed the cup by one inch.

Professional Phil Taylor, 854

Newport, and D. Frankland, 705 Pandora, were the lucky men who sank their shots, and H. B. Barnes, 2880 Beach Drive, suffered the frustration of the inch miss.

The Barnes family were not entirely unlucky, however. Mrs. H. B. Barnes was winner of a grocery hamper draw.

On Wednesday night a few brave souls stood in driving rain to witness the opening ceremonies of the carnival.

The opening was made by the mayor, who drove off the first ball, landing within 15 inches of the pin, and ending up as winner of the opening night competition.

Reeve A. C. Wurtele of Esquimalt and Reeve Fred Norris of Oak Bay were both on hand for the ceremony, but neither could match the mayor's golfing skill.

Besides two boats and motors offered as grand prizes at the carnival, nightly awards of $15, $10 and $5 are offered to the top golfers of the evening.

Victorians still have two more days in which to make a try for the prizes. Doors open tonight at 7 p.m. and on Saturday at 2:30 p.m.

Proceeds from the fair will go towards developing the Gyro Club park at Cadboro Bay.

LINE FORMS TO RIGHT AT FIRST BAR

For every customer that sat down, two were turned away in the first day's operation of Victoria's first cocktail bar.

The bar opened at 4 p.m. Thursday in the Strathcona Hotel, and the place was jammed until closing at 11:30 p.m. In all, about 200 persons were served.

Manager John Olson pitched in and worked behind the bar himself in the face of business which was "beyond expectations."

Customers were split equally between tourists and Victoria residents, and averaged three drinks each.

More gin was sold than any other beverage.

"They were a very nice crowd," said Mr. Olson of his customers.

Today, when the bar opened at 10:30 a.m., bar stools were filled within a few minutes.

First drink sold in the new outlet went to Russell Horton of Victoria when the bar opened at 4 p.m. Thursday. He had a martini.

The bright, clean cocktail bar seats about 35 persons. Solitary males usually head for a bar stool, while couples gravitate to tables.

Close Voting Clouds Result In Saanich

While on the basis of the initial count, Central Saanich voters approved all liquor outlets except beer parlors in Tuesday's plebiscite, it was indicated today the final count may alter the entire picture.

The same condition applied in Saanich with regard to beer parlors which was approved by voters by one vote in the initial count.

All other outlets in Saanich, however, were approved by a decisive vote and it is unlikely that any changes in the final count will affect the present picture. Dining rooms, cabarets and clubs, and cocktail lounges were all approved by a majority vote.

In Central Saanich, where the vote was light, residents approved the three liquor outlets by an average vote of 10.

Dining rooms won by a majority of 12 votes, cabarets and clubs 11 votes; and cocktail lounges 10 votes. As it can be seen, any change in the final count might alter any of these three results.

In accordance with the new Liquor Act, returning officer Mrs. T. Clarke has up to 10 days following the plebiscite to turn in her official count to the provincial government. This would make it July 12.

However, it is expected that Mrs. Clarke will have the official figures ready before that date.

Mrs. Clarke today was still waiting upon some of her polling station officials to turn in their official counts. So far she has received no reports which would change the initial count in Saanich, including the beer parlor vote.

Meanwhile, it was learned, Brenta Lodge, Brentwood, and Chez Ernest Restaurant, Royal Oak, have applied to the B.C. Liquor Control Board for dining room licenses.

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—What year was the Royal George disaster?—G. D.

A.—That British warship, being refitted at Spithead, heeled over and sank August 29, 1782. About 800 of the approximately 1,000 persons on board lost their lives.

Q.—Is there a budgetary club or society in Victoria? If so, where can I locate it? Are there any requirements for it?—L. G.

The body meets twice a month, but during the midsummer season the sessions are suspended. September will bring an event of interest to budgetary admirers. Two Saanich brothers were saved when their small sailing boat capsized in Cordova Bay Thursday afternoon.

Saanich police said "they were lucky Reid had a boat."

Victoria Yacht Club Takes Top Honors at Bellingham

Royal Victoria Yacht Club took top honors in the Pacific International Yachting Association races at Bellingham Thursday, nosing out the Corinthian Yacht Club in the inter-club race.

The Victoria club led the Canadian contingent in victory over the U.S. clubs, winning the nine-mile event 13 points to 12. Third place was taken by Seattle Yacht Club with 11 points, fourth place by Royal Vancouver with 10, and fifth by Bellingham with 6.

The clubs drew boats by lot, some vessels sailing under the flag of other clubs.

Four classes of boats—lightnings, knockabouts, international 110's and sailorettes—competed in the event.

A Royal Victoria boat, Two Bits, skippered by Jorgen Baess, won the dragon class competition.

Baess, who was suffering from a cut forehead resulting from a fall overboard, piloted his craft to victory and then headed for a hospital and some stitches.

An American aggregation won the international team race, gathering 19½ points to 11 for Canadian vessels as they sailed a windy 12-mile course.

One gardener's strawberry crop failure was found to be caused through watering the plants daily with hose and nozzle. Wet pollen is useless for pollination. Pollinating insects dislike wet blooms. Which amounts to the same as a wet spring and poor fruit crops.

Nevertheless, all berry crops need lots of water—at the roots, not on the flowers.

If your German (bearded) iris have been undisturbed for three years (or more) now is the time to lift and divide the rhizomes. If you ordered iris from your nurseryman during their flowering season, delivery may be expected any day, so prepare the ground where they are to be planted.

There is a chance you would like a collection of iris but have not placed an order.

While you cannot select by blossom it is not too late to order by description, and this should be done as early as possible.

And when you visit your nursery, ask to see Iris ochroleuca which is in bloom now. One of the Spuria group, its two-tone yellow flowers on five-foot stems make an attraction in any border which has heavy soil, rich and moist.

AS WE LIVE

Man Considers Himself Privileged Character

By ELIZABETH R. HURLOCK, PhD

When a man thinks he has the right to do just as he pleases because he is a man, the time has come to let him know he is not a "privileged person." A wife writes:

Hurlock

(Q)—"I have been married for six years and most of this time has been very upsetting for me. My husband never does anything morally wrong, but he is so inconsiderate of me and our two children. When we go to a party or picnic he will leave me, go off with some of the men, and perhaps be gone from the house for several hours. If he goes to the store and says he will be right back, it may be two or three hours before he returns. He never explains or apologizes for keeping me waiting for a meal. If I say anything to him about it, he gets mad and may not speak to me for several days. But, if I am just a few minutes late in getting home he makes an awful fuss. He seems to think that just because he is a man he can do as he pleases. Am I being unreasonable about this?"

(A)—Of course not. Your husband is the one who is behaving like an irresponsible child. He has no more right to do as he pleases than you or anyone else has.

If he refuses to see how inconsiderate he is, the only thing you can do is to show him so by your actions. When he takes you to a party and pays no attention to you, you should enjoy yourself with the other guests. If he does not turn up when it is time to go home, ask some of the other guests if they will drop you off at your home when they leave.

At home, go right on with the meal or whatever the routine is when your husband does not show up on time. When he comes back late, let him get his own meal or go hungry. He cannot expect consideration from you if he shows you none.

As for your own latenesses, tell him you will be perfectly willing to call and tell him you will be late if he does the same. Otherwise, maintain silence as he does. It won't make a pleasant home, but it may cure him of his lack of consideration.

Tasty Relish Molds Add Flavor to Cold-Cut Meals

Individual relish molds and cold cuts make a perfect summertime main dish.

This is the cold cut season. To make those time-saving meats taste even better, a young friend of ours in New York has invented a new form of pickle relish to serve with them. We think you'll enjoy these relish molds of fresh vegetables, olives and tangy seasoning.

INDIVIDUAL RELISH MOLDS (Yield: 12 servings)

Two envelopes unflavored gelatin, 1 cup cold water, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup mayonnaise, 1 cup sour cream, 2 tablespoons prepared mustard, ¼ teaspoon Tabasco, 1 tablespoon grated onion, 1 10-ounce jar pickle relish, ½ cup diced green pepper, 1 cup chopped cucumber, 1½ cups diced celery, ¼ cup chopped stuffed olives.

Sprinkle gelatin on cold water to soften. Place over boiling water and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Add salt; cool.

Combine mayonnaise, sour cream, prepared mustard and Tabasco; gradually add gelatin mixture, stirring until blended. Mix in remaining ingredients. Turn into 12 individual molds; chill until firm. Serve with assorted cold cuts.

While on the subject of gelatin molded foods for summer, here's a recipe for delicate individual chicken molds.

Peonies, Carnations, Gladioli Deck Church for Naval Wedding

White peonies, red carnations and white gladioli in tall baskets decorated St. Luke's Anglican Church for the recent afternoon ceremony which united in marriage June Douglas Erskine Drury, daughter of Mrs. William Scully, Manor Farms; Jordan Station, Ont., with Sub-Lieut. Charles Eugene Bandy, son of Mrs. Percy J. Bandy, 33 Bracken Avenue, Toronto, Ont. Canon F. Pike officiated.

Gounod's "Ave Maria" was played during the signing of the register and G. M. Bernard gave the bride in marriage.

The bride's gown was fashioned with fitted, strapless bodice of white lace which extended to the hip line, from which frothed a full skirt of nylon net.

A lace bolero jacket covered her shoulders and she wore a floral coronet to hold her fingertip veil. White gladioli, lily of the valley and ivy formed her crescent bouquet. "Something old" was a diamond and sapphire bracelet and ring set, of the bride's great-grandmother.

As matron of honor, Mrs. William Chaster wore a gown of red taffeta and tulle, styled with strapless bodice and full skirt. Her bouquet was of white feathered carnations and ivy trailers.

Bridesmaids, Mrs. E. B. Stolee and Mrs. L. T. Blair, were gownned similarly. Little flower girl was the bride's step-sister, Miss Penelope Scully, gownned in a short frock of yellow nylon trimmed with white lace. She carried white carnations, sweet peas and ivy surrounding a single yellow rose, in her colonial bouquet.

Sub-Lieut. William Chaster acted as best man. Sub-Lieut. B. Saper, Sub-Lieut. James Lawless and Mr. John Bandy were ushers.

Guests gathered at the home of Sub-Lieut. and Mrs. William Chaster, 3745 Ascot Drive, for the reception. Red roses and carnations and white gladioli and peonies formed floral decorations. The three-tier cake was topped with a horseshoe of pink rosebuds and lily of the valley.

Toast to the bride was proposed by D. L. Raymond. For receiving guests, mother of the bride wore a white and black print dress with copper sable stole and gun-metal accessories.

The newlyweds left for a honeymoon at Maple Bay Inn and on the mainland. For traveling, Mrs. Bandy donned a Copenhagen blue linen sheath dress with matching shoes and bag and white duster coat. The couple will live on Tyndall Avenue, RR 5, Victoria.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

When removing food spatters from your stove after cooking, use a crushed newspaper to wipe off the grease. Besides absorbing the grease faster, using the newspaper will save your dishcloth supply.

A simple, but tasty pie crust can be had by using corn flakes. Roll the flakes in waxed paper and crush with a rolling pin. Then, add melted butter or margarine. If you like, you may substitute graham crackers for corn flakes.

Between Ourselves

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Flo Chadwick brought a surprise packet with her Thursday morning when she stepped off the plane at Patricia Bay Airport... her mother, Mrs. Mary Chadwick, who accompanied her north from California. "Mom" as she was introduced to the assembled crowd.

Daughter and mother show a strong family resemblance in the shape of their faces, their eyes, in the way they talk and the tones of their voices. But "Mom" Chadwick is shorter than her famous daughter. And she tells you that Flo takes after her father when it comes to height.

"He was a big, tall man," Mrs. Chadwick says, with a note of pride.

Like all mothers, Mom Chadwick is very proud of her only daughter. And, although she claims she never did want her to go in for this long-distance swimming, when Flo made up her mind to do it... well, Mom went along with the idea.

"After all, she was of age," she says with a little chuckle, "and there was nothing I could do about it. You just can't take them out and shoot them, you know."

Then she confessed that in the beginning she DID have something to do with this business of long-distance swimming. Mom told me the story while we were waiting for Flo to come in from her first swim in Cadboro Bay, Thursday afternoon.

When Flo was nine years old, she decided she wanted to stop swimming in pools and get out and swim in the open water.

"We lived close to a bay much like this one," Mom said, "and every morning I took her down to our bay to swim. Just around 6 o'clock. Still dark and mist on the water. She'd go in the water and I'd walk along the shore. I'd try to keep her in view but she'd get out in the dawn mist and I'd have to follow her by sound."

"She would swim and swim and I would walk and walk. Then I had to get her out of the water, home for breakfast and dressed in time for school. When I'd ask her why she wanted to swim in the sea she'd tell me she planned to do lots of rough water swimming some day and she needed to practice."

Mom Chadwick looked out at the white speck that was Flo's swimming cap, bobbing along at the entrance to Cadboro Bay, and her eyes narrowed. "She's kicking her feet too high," she said with a mother's quick concern to have her daughter do everything the way it should be done in her first appearance in a new field of "rough water" swimming.

Mother Wants Flo in Restaurant

As we talked I discovered that Mom Chadwick always hoped Flo would join her in a restaurant business she has been running in San Diego since 1927. The Chadwick Restaurant is called. It seats more than 200 guests and right now it is in the process of enlargement to take in a new refreshment lounge that will be called the Channel Room.

"But every time I start talking restaurant," she said, "Flo finds another channel to swim."

A son, six years older than Flo and on the San Diego police force and his wife and children. ("I've got a grandson 18 years of age," Mrs. Chadwick told me proudly) are keeping an eye on the restaurant while "MOM" is away.

In Victoria, Mary Chadwick will try feeding one person... not 200. "I'm going to cook for Flo," she says, "she's not hard to please. Likes steaks, pork, fish, avocados. In fact, she'll eat anything I cook for her."

Just then the boat following Flo in her swim in Cadboro Bay headed for the beach and Mom Chadwick was on the alert immediately. "She'll want her towel... and her slippers... and her coat as soon as she gets out of the water," she said.

Then she turned to me with a look of pride in the thought that she knew her famed daughter so well. "When she comes out of the water she'll say 'oh, that was a good workout... you wait and see...' And that's exactly what Flo did say."

When Mom Chadwick got off the plane Thursday morning she said she was only going to stay a couple of weeks... "just until Flo gets settled."

After she had a quick look at Victoria and the seaside cottage at Cadboro Bay, she changed her mind. "I think I'll stay the full six weeks," she said.

We hope you do, Mom. We like you!

Hardships Many But Work Worth-While; They Will Return to North

Employed by the Diocese of the Arctic, Church of England in Canada, Miss Andrews, left, and Miss Shirley Mason... "the two Shirleys" as they were known up beyond the Arctic Circle.

Both girls have been away more than two years. Shirley Andrews working as a medical secretary in All Saints' Hospital at Akklavik and Shirley Mason first doing laboratory technician work in the same hospital and later in charge of a small hospital on Great Slave Lake.

Neither young woman has any regrets for the years spent in the Arctic. "It's not an easy life, of course," Shirley Mason says, "but you know the work you are doing is worth while."

Miss Andrews adds that they learned to do without many things considered necessities in Victoria.

BANANA, $1.25
"Fruits, for instance. We can get fruit but it's flown in from Fairbanks and the price is terrific," she explained. "I've paid thirty-five cents for one banana and $1.25 for three tomatoes. You learn to eat slowly and to relish each bite at that price."

There is no fresh milk, the young friends tell you and eggs get rather "high" between shipments. "But we eat them!" they chorus with knowing looks at each other and a serious of wry smiles. "Surprising how you can acquire a taste for such things."

There are 115 beds in the Akklavik hospital, Shirley Andrews tells you, and they are nearly always full. Patients include Eskimau, Indians of the Loucheux tribe and a percentage of the two hundred white people in the town, including naval personnel, RCMP, Hudson's Bay Company staff, government employees, signal staff, game wardens and teachers.

The white community must create its own fun and good times. There is curling in the winter, dances and a picture show three nights a week, with a matinee on Saturday.

"Old pictures, of course," the girls tell you with a laugh, "and the majority of them about cowboys."

"It's a funny thing," Shirley

Her little hospital is situated in the centre of the Indian village. The white settlement is on the other side of the river.

"If I have any free time... which isn't very often... I have to cross the river to join friends," she says. Crossing the river means by boat in summer and walking on ice in winter.

Despite primitive conditions and hardships, both girls are going back into the north after their leave. Miss Andrews has found romance in the Arctic and is going to be married in Akklavik. Her fiancé is in the navy.

Miss Mason won't own up to romance, but her eyes are bright and happy when she talks of returning to her hospital.

Miss Andrews' wedding cake and some of her trousseau was shipped to Akklavik some time ago, for although there is plane service in summer, supplies for the hospital and its staff go in by boat only twice during the short season the waterways are open.

Andrews remembers, "the natives have never seen a horse in real life but they love cowboy pictures."

In summer if they wish to get about the country, the girls travel by plane, in winter by dog team. They are quite acclimatized now to the mid-night sun in the long summer months and have learned to sleep in broad daylight.

They have also got used to wearing mukluks... the soft Esquimaux shoes. So much so, that they are finding high heels and hard pavements a bit of a chore.

"Our feet are sore," Shirley Main wails.

At Hay River on Great Slave Lake, where Miss Main has been in charge of a six-bed hospital since last autumn, there is a big settlement of the Loucheux-Indians and many commercial fishermen (six or seven companies on the lake). The tiny town is at the end of the McKenzie River Highway into the Peace River country and there is a bus service from Edmonton three times a week.

The nearest doctor, however, is 150 miles away, so Miss Main has had to handle many unusual cases. She minimizes her work and shrugs her shoulders when she is asked direct questions, but she does own up that she has delivered babies and sutured and sewn up wounds.

"Of course, if I run into very sick patients, I ship them out by plane right away," she says quietly.

Marion DeBow Wed Among Roses In Holiday Ceremony at Centennial

Amid the fragrance of pink and white roses, a double-ring ceremony Thursday night, low taffeta. Bridesmaid, Miss Mildred Swanson of Calgary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. DeBow, 281 Kamloops Avenue, and William Brian Vint, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Vint, Gorge Road, Rev. Douglas Carr read the service in Centennial United Church, Mrs. E. Wilmsburt was organist, and during signing of the register, Allan Husband sang a solo.

Accompanied by her father, the bride walked up the aisle, wearing a lovely bridal gown of imported Chantilly lace over satin, the bouffant skirt flounced with pleated nylon net. The strapless bodice was topped with a satin-lined lace jacket featuring Elizabethan collar and lily-point sleeves. A Dutch style bonnet of net and lace embroidered with seed pearls held her lace-edged illusion net veil and she carried a colonial style bouquet of pink rapture roses, swansonia and white carnations.

Mrs. G. Matsuba of Edmonton was matron of honor. Her ankle-length gown was of pale blue tiered nylon tulle on yellow taffeta. Bridesmaid, Miss Mildred Swanson of Calgary, wore a similar gown in yellow tulle on yellow taffeta. Both wore matching Dutch-style cap-ettes and carried baskets containing yellow, pink and blue carnations, roses and Ester Reid daisies and tied with rainbow satin ribbons. Best man was John Emery and ushers were Bedford Bates and Dick Coles.

A reception was held in Centennial Church hall which had been beautifully decorated with pink and white roses. G. Whidden proposed a toast to the bride and Mrs. S. F. Leech sang solos.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. J. Dobinson, Red Deer, Alta., Mrs. V. Sanders, Chilliwack, and Mrs. Pullan of Calgary.

Departing on a honeymoon to an undisclosed destination, the bride changed to a cloud blush charmeen suit with pink collar.

4 Quebec Bushworkers Drowned, Tops Canada's 17 Holiday Deaths

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
The drowning of four bushworkers in northwestern Quebec topped the list of fatalities across Canada beginning with the Dominion Day holiday Thursday.

They were among the 17 persons reported killed in the period from 6 p.m. Wednesday to 10 a.m. today. Drownings claimed 10 lives, highway accidents six and electrocution one. A Canadian Press compilation showed the toll was highest in Ontario. Of the eight fatalities in that province five occurred in traffic accidents, three in drownings and one by electrocution.

The four violent deaths reported from Quebec were the drownings of the bushworkers. Three persons lost their lives in Manitoba, and two in British Columbia.

The bushworkers were identified as Yves Berube, 23, of Noranda, Que.; Armand Begin, 23, and Laurent Martin, 34, of Beaudry; and Henri Bourassa, 40, of Cadillac, Que. They were drowned when a 10-foot boat with five men aboard capsized and sank 50 feet from the dock.

LONG WEEK-END

The holiday marked the beginning of a four-day long week-end for some Canadians. But many worked as usual and took their holiday today. Provincial police in many areas said highways were not jammed as much as they would be on Sunday night.

In Manitoba, a woman and two children were drowned Thursday in two separate accidents. Mrs. Fern Vichek, 28, and her daughter, Louise, 4, of DuFrost, were drowned when their car overturned in a water-filled ditch. Yvonne Papineau, 2½, of St. Boniface, was drowned when she fell into a 10-gallon crock standing outside her home. She had been trying to fill a small can with water.

A 35-year-old British Columbia airman from the Sea Island RC AF base was drowned Thursday by onrushing water released from a power dam while fishing at Stave Falls. FO Norman (Gus) Mont failed to hear the warning signal that the flood gates were to be opened.

British Columbia's one traffic fatality occurred when an unidentified woman died in an automobile accident in Vancouver.

KNOWLAND WOULD CUT OFF MONEY TO UN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator William Knowland (Rep. Calif.) said today he may ask Congress to shut off all American contributions to the United Nations if the UN admits Red China to membership.

Knowland said State Secretary Dulles will be asked to reaffirm American policy on the issue when the secretary appears at a closed session of the Senate foreign relations committee today.

RCMP Defend Raid on Kin Club Carnival

NORTH VANCOUVER (BUP) — Despite harsh criticism Royal Canadian Mounted Police officials here today defended their recent raid on the gambling concessions of the Kinsmen Club carnival at Mahon Park.

Sergeant M. MacBrayne told newsmen that the time had come to "slow them down a little."

The raid was directed at a tent in which the Kinsmen Club was operating slot machines and Crown and Anchor boards. The games at the carnival had been allowed to operate in former years.

No arrests were made. Mayor Charles Cates also stepped into the issue and told Kinsmen Club officials that "The law is the law . . . and there is nothing I can do about it."

However, Cates said, in his personal opinion the law is far too rigid in such matters.

The entire proceeds from the carnival goes to charitable causes.

Victoria Welcomes Aquatic Queen Here for Big Swim

Training Starts for 'Juan de Fuca War'

Tremendous power and sustained drive were shown by Flo Chadwick when she tested Vancouver Island waters for the first time Thursday. Her swimming style is effortless and rhythmic. Coaches Archie McKinnon and Jack Todd, who accompanied her in a boat during her two-mile workout, were amazed by the consistent speed she displayed. And when she left the water (right) she had smiles and friendly words for small admirers who waded out to greet her. Close to a thousand spectators lined the beach at Cadboro Bay to watch Flo's first training stint.

Co-Sponsors Welcome Miss Chadwick and Mother

Officials of British-America Paint Co. and the Victoria Daily Times, co-sponsors of Flo's cross-strait swim attempt, were first to greet her when she stepped off the TCA plane from Seattle at Pa-

Shaver Shivers Welcome

Smallest welcomer at the airport for Flo's arrival was tiny four-month-old chihuahua owned by Molly Hiens (right). Chill breeze at airport made the little fellow shiver, and he was glad of the chance to snuggle inside the four-point blanket coat presented to Flo by the Hudson's Bay Company. HBC gave Flo two blanket coats, the short one shown here, and an ankle-length robe to be used when she leaves the water after her training swims. (All Times photos on this page by Bill Halkett.)

New Car for Flo

Pleasant surprise for Flo on her arrival at the airport Thursday was a glistening new 1954 Oldsmobile, loaned to her for the duration of her stay in Victoria by R. B. Wilson (left), president of Wilson Motors Ltd. She could hardly wait to get behind the wheel, and drove the car from the airport to her training camp at Cadboro Bay. With Flo in the convertible is Stuart Keate, Times publisher.

Rainbow Sea Cadets Plan Week-End Camp

Thirty boys of the Victoria Rainbow division of the Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps will rough it for the week-end under canvas on Discovery Island.

It is the first outdoor exercise of its type for the young tars this year and Lieut. Cmdr. Thomas A. Dando, commander, says he hopes to lay on more before the end of the summer period. Six officers will supervise the outing.

The island off Oak Bay will be the base of operations for the scheme. The youngsters will sleep in tents pitched on the beaches and their grub will be furnished by field kitchens. They will be tested on their ability to handle vessels (naval whalers) under sail and on other aspects of their naval training.

The cadets will leave the headquarters at the foot of Robert Street at 6 p.m. today, in four whalers under sail. A naval power cruiser will accompany them as a safety escort. The camp ends Sunday.

Boone appeared in live broadcasts of a national network from 1937 to 1951, performing the auctioneer's chant. He moved here with his wife about four years ago when he went into semi retirement because of failing health.

CKDA Broadcasts On New Wave July 18

Victoria radio station CKDA will have a new air home commencing at 5 p.m. on July 18.

At that time, CKDA will leave its spot at 1340 kilocycles, and begin broadcasting at 1280 on the dial with power output increased from 250 watts to 5,000 watts.

To mark the occasion, CKDA will stage a mammoth five-hour opening show. During the program, Premier W. A. C. Bennett will officially open the new station and greetings will be heard from other provincial and civil officials.

CKDA owner-manager Dave Armstrong, and staff members

Dave Hill, Gordon Reid and Ed Farey will play a major role in the ceremonies.

A highlight of the program will be official greetings from stations across Canada and the United States, and from several Hollywood personalities. Canadian stations from as far east as New Brunswick and Nova Scotia will add their voices to the show, and word will even come from station KNAL, Victoria, Texas.

With the changeover, CKDA will become the first 5,000 watt station on the Island, and the only station on the Island whose transmitter is situated off Vancouver Island.

The new transmitter for CKDA is situated on Chatham Island off Oak Bay.

TWO for the SHOW
By PHIL LEE

AA (Oscar Class) BB (Worthwhile)
A (Don't Miss) B (For Rainy Days)
C (To put to time)

(A) "PRINCE VALIANT" (Odeon) — With practically everyone looking like college students dressed up to impersonate the legendary King Arthur and ye gallant knights of the table round this 20th Century Fox wide-screen CinemaScope makes for ideal family entertainment for the holiday season. The kids will eat it up and Mom and Dad won't feel as though the time is entirely wasted.

Once again a CinemaScope does wondrous things for an average show. It projects scenes filmed in the magnificent countryside of Britain to such breathless size that the head has to move to take everything in. Against such a background Harold Foster's renowned comic glows with life and action all wrapped up in the myriad tints of Technicolor. The plot in brief:

PRINCE VALIANT (Robert Wagner), on behalf of his father, a deposed Viking king, journeys to King Arthur's court at Camelot in the hopes of becoming a knight of the round table. Instead, owing to his lack of valorous deeds, he becomes squire to Sir Gawain (Sterling Hayden). However, you can rest assured that before the piece is run out he has performed enough doughty deeds to do credit to a regiment of heroes. To aid and abet him are James Mason, a villainous knight who covets Arthur's throne, fair Princess Aleta of Ord (Janet Leigh) and a brace of hairy, cow-horned Vikings called Victor McLaglen and Primo Carnera.

What in this column's opinion makes this costume piece more than ordinarily engaging, however, is the catchy manner in which producer Robert L. Jacks and director Henry Hathaway have tied the parcel up. Although they worked together to produce a superbly photographed drama as well as an exciting one, they also injected fine, bouncy humor into the lines and in some of the brash sword-swinging, castle-climbing scenes we have witnessed in a long time.

Florence Chadwick's Day

Hi!
If the water between Victoria and Port Angeles is as warm as the reception I received yesterday when I arrived here, I should be able to swim the Straits of Juan de Fuca both ways.

It just made me feel wonderful to see all our old friends at Patricia Bay airport to welcome Mother and me when we arrived from Seattle. Even people whom I had never met before treated me just like one of a big family. I guess that's the way people are in Victoria.

It was so nice the way everyone kept apologizing for the rain. But actually they shouldn't have bothered. A person who is as used to being wet as I am certainly doesn't mind a little bit of rain.

You people in Victoria are marvelous. I received two wonderful gifts when I got off the plane. The first was a warm blanket coat from Hudson's Bay Company. I'll never know how they managed to find one that fit me perfectly. The other was the loan of a sleek new Oldsmobile convertible that is mine as long as I am in Victoria. It's a beautiful car, but the nicest thing about it is that it's green, my favorite color.

After I met all the press and radio and TV men at the airport, I had to go through the immigration office and it reminded me of something that happened in Seattle.

I was in the airport there, confirming tickets for Mother and me. One of the clerks knew why I was coming to Victoria, and he said, "Maybe you'd like to swim to Victoria, Miss Chadwick."

I said, "No thank you. I am planning to swim back."

I wish you could all see my cute little cottage out in Cadboro Bay, where I will be training. It's the first thing I have seen in ages that looks like a home and Mother and I fell in love with it right away. When I unpacked my suitcases, it was the first time since January that I had been able to unpack every one of them. That's how busy I was on my tour.

Another thing, it will be a relief for Mother and I to be able to cook our own meals. We have been traveling so much lately that we have almost had to eat on the run.

I certainly hope I haven't forgotten how to cook. That would be an awful predicament for a girl who has just become engaged.

"Flo."

Peace Noisier Than War In Guatemala

GUATEMALA CITY (AP)—Peace came to Guatemala City today after two weeks of war—and it proved far noisier than any fighting the capital had experienced.

News of the cease-fire agreement reached by Col. Efraim Moron and rebel chief Col. Carlos Castillo Armas in neighboring El Salvador arrived here early this morning and Guatemalans promptly began celebrating with firecrackers and rockets.

Members of the new ruling junta will make a triumphant entrance into Guatemala City at 11 a.m. Saturday.

Swim Star Begins Tough Training Grind for Strait

By DENNY BOYD

If anyone needed convincing that Florence Chadwick has a good chance to make the 18 1/4-mile swim to Port Angeles the doubts were set at rest by the famous swimmer's first performance in Victoria waters.

This morning Miss Chadwick covered nearly three miles in course of an hour and a half swimming the waters of Cadboro Bay. This followed a one-hour grind Thursday afternoon.

From each swim she came out fresh, but there is no room for argument that the temperature of the Strait waters will be the biggest factor she must overcome.

"Yes, it's cold," Miss Chadwick said when she emerged from the first dip. "But I'm looking forward to swim and I'll be trying very hard. I promise that."

Miss Chadwick arrived here Thursday from California, by plane, to begin a rigorous six weeks' training schedule before the big day in August when she will swim for a $10,000 award posted by British America Paint Company.

In her swim this morning Miss Chadwick got as far out as Cattle Point, where assistant coach Jack Todd figures she encountered water as cold as she will find anywhere in the strait. It was 49 degrees, compared to 51 degrees at the Cadboro Bay shore.

Hits Water Within Four Hours

Reflecting the determination she has to conquer the cold Strait, Miss Chadwick was cleaving the waters of Cadboro Bay within four hours of her arrival in Victoria.

About 1,000 people lined the beach to see Miss Chadwick take her first practice swim, some partisan, some skeptical and others just curious.

They saw the plucky San Diego girl slice through the water with her tremendously powerful stroke, covering more than two miles in the hour-long practice session under the scrutinizing eyes of her coaches, Archie McKinnon and Jack Todd of Victoria.

When she emerged from the water at the end of the swim, smiling and waving cheerfully, even the skeptics were cheering this girl who has conquered the English Channel, the Bosphorus, the Catalina Channel and the Straits of Gibraltar.

A discriminating perfectionist in her chosen line, Miss Chadwick's first evaluation of her initial practice swim was one of self-reproach. "I was clumsy out there," she said as soon as she left the water. "I'll have to get loosened up."

Strait Reminiscent of Channel

Concerning the temperature of the water, Miss Chadwick said she was pleasantly surprised as the water was about three degrees warmer than she had anticipated. She estimated the water temperature at about 53 degrees and said that the condition of the water and the temperature reminded her strongly of the English Channel.

Miss Chadwick refused to draw any parallel between the ease and success of Thursday's swim and the awesome task she faces in August, saying, "Today's swim didn't mean much. I am anxious to find how I will react when I start training five and six hours a day in the water."

Jokingly, she said that her only concern while she was swimming was for coach Jack Todd, who rowed the coaching boat while McKinnon studied her stroke. "Poor Jack," she said, "I kept worrying about him getting blisters on his hands because he was rowing without gloves."

Preceded by a small platoon of photographers and newsreel and TV cameramen, Miss Chadwick and her mother left their cabin overlooking Cadboro Bay at 3 in the afternoon. Walking down to the beach, she wore a full-length blanket coat, donated to her by the Hudson's Bay Company.

It had been originally planned to have her enter the water from the Yacht Club but in order not to disappoint the crowd that thronged the beach beneath her cabin, she offered to swim from the beach.

While she waited for the coaching boat to come into view, Miss Chadwick signed autographs and posed for pictures although it was obvious she was anxious to start the swim. Her

Iron Constitution? Flo Proves She Has It

It will take an iron constitution to swim Juan de Fuca Strait and Miss Chadwick certainly proved Thursday she has it.

Many people who saw her swim did not know this: she flew from Los Angeles to Seattle Wednesday night and got to bed at 2 a.m. She was up at 6 and took a plunge in the Washington Athletic Club pool. This was for the benefit of famed swimming coach Ray Daughters, who once coached Flo. He gave her some advice on her stroke.

Then she was off by plane to Victoria, a bustling reception, a motorcade through town and a formal luncheon. An hour and a half later she was knifing through the waters of Cadboro Bay for a two-mile swim.

The exact date of her swim across the strait will depend on many factors and probably will not be decided for some weeks yet, after her navigator arrives from Los Angeles.

Best guess at the moment is the middle of the week August 9-14. Preliminary study of tides indicates a suitable period that week can be found. But wind and general weather conditions will have a bearing on the actual start.

Flo has two public appearances Saturday. First is at 2 p.m. at the Hudson's Bay Co. fur department, where a fur show is in progress. There she'll be presented with the "fur-lined" bathing suit made up for her because of her wisecrack she might need one for the cool Strait waters.

Her second appearance will be at the Gyro Club's Hole-in-one Contest at Central Junior High at 7 p.m.
